Marijuana Hearing Ends As Witness Decides To Talk

Judge Delays Decision One Day After Bonomolo Purchase Told

Preliminary hearing of John W. Rundle, 18, of Novato, ended in Marin Municipal Court today after a one-time reluctant prosecution witness testified Rundle sold him a matchbox of marijuana for $3 on March 2.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. withheld until tomorrow decision on whether to hold Rundle, of 1363 Cambridge Street, over to Marin Superior Court for felony prosecution on a charge of marijuana sale.

The hearing, which started Monday afternoon, had ended abruptly when the key witness, Frank Bonomolo of 201 San Felipe Way, Novato, took the Fifth Amendment.

Judge Goldstein ordered Bonomoto to appear before Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court to show why he should not be forced to testify. Yesterday, however, Bonomolo changed his mind and told Judge Haley he would voluntarily testify.

The hearing resumed late yesterday.

Bonomolo, who said he disliked attempts to make marijuana available to school-aged youths—including his younger brother, Tip—testified he arranged a marijuana purchase from Rundle, then notified Novato Police Officer William Cann.

DROVE AWAY

Bonomolo said he and Rundle drove to the home of a 16-year-old Novato youth, where Rundle was to obtain the weed. The youth was not home, however, he said, and they drove to College of Marin in an unsuccessful attempt to find him at a traffic school.

Bonomolo said he was aware that Officer Cann and other officers were "taling" them, and that they returned to the youth's house and located him.

Rundle, accompanied by the youth, returned to the car and gave Bonomolo a matchbox containing marijuana, he said. He testified Rundle also gave him $2 change for a $5 bill.

The 16-year-old, said Bonomolo, declared, "I didn't know you were a user."

He said he replied, "Oh, yeah, I've smoked it about a year or so."

Bonomolo said he asked the youth, "Do you think we can get some more?"

"Things are pretty tight right now," he quoted the youth as saying, "I'll make some phone calls tonight and talk to you tomorrow."

Bonomolo said the threesome split up, that he later met Officer Cann at the Greyhound Bus Depot and turned the marijuana over to him. He said the following day, Rundle saw him and asked what he did with the marijuana.

"I told him I sold it," testified Bonomolo.

'STAY CLEAN'

He said Rundle then declared the Novato police were getting suspicious and he (Rundle) was going to "stay clean" after that. Bonomolo added that the other youth, the 16-year-old, also failed to provide more marijuana.

The latter, one of 10 young people arrested by Novato police for alleged possession and sale of marijuana by Novato High School students, testified this morning that Rundle neither sold nor gave marijuana to Bonomolo, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Thomas, who is prosecutor.

Officer Cann testified earlier that Bonomolo turned the marijuana over to him.

Rundle is free on $550 bail pending the hearing decision. The 16-year-old is charged in juvenile court in marijuana dealings.

Ark Dwellers Only Get Suggestions

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Larkspur ark dwellers got little but suggestions for seeking help elsewhere as they appeared today before the State Land Commission at the capitol to protest their ouster to make way for the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

Ann H. McCorry, Phyllis Heath and Asa H. Briggs appeared to protest orders to vacate their arks on state-owned land along the creek which would be included in the widened channel under the Army Corps of Engineers' flood control project. Miss McCorry said she was appearing as an individual, and not as a representative of the Marin County Flood Control Advisory Board, of which she is a member.

After hearing the ark dwellers' pleas, the lands commission, at suggestion of Hugo Fisher of the State Resources Agency, agreed to discuss with the state attorney general the possibility that Marin County, the flood control district, or the Army Engineers might recompense the owners for the arks they will have to abandon.

The lands commission has no authority to pay them, the protesters were told.

As to the timing of their removal, the commission told the ark dwellers it may order them out on less than 30 days' notice if this proves necessary for start of the flood control project. The objective, however, will be to allow them to remain in the arks as long as possible, commissioners said.

Navy Missile Test Made Successfully

POINT MUGU (AP)—The first powered flight of the Navy's newest missile "Phoenix," was conducted successfully yesterday by the Hughes Aircraft Co. on the Pacific Missile Range under the direction of the Naval Missile Center here.

The operation proved the compatibility of the missile and the test aircraft. The propulsion unit was developed by the Rocketdyne Division of North American Aviation, McGregor, Tex.

Law School Dean Asks More Students' Rights

BERKELEY (AP)—The dean of the University of California Law School and a group of law professors say college students should have more rights, particularly in the areas of political activity and campus rules-making.

The views appear in articles in the current issue of the California Law Review that analyze campus turmoils during the Free Speech Movement (FSM) demonstrations.

Dean Frank C. Newman said student freedoms lag behind rights guaranteed to others. "Academic freedom needs much updating," said. "A great university should not have to be dragged, kicking and screaming into the decade of newly honed freedoms."

Hans Linde, University of Oregon law professor, wrote, "No public university has any business—in law or in tactical common sense—making rules for its students restricting political activity as such."

Linde said rules against student political activity could be "instant unconstitutionality."

Newman said students probably have constitutional rights to help make rules that govern student conduct. And Prof. Arthur H. Sherry said student controversies would continue until they no longer are expected to "submit with docility" to rules made without their participation.

Profs. David W. Louisell and Frank C. Newman engaged in a discussion of the Berkeley campus FSM movement. Louisell said the FSM "cultivated the myth of denial of free speech . . . . the tactic was clever, dramatic and captivating . . . . but essentially it was a sham."

Newman wrote that free speech demands were not mythical. He said the theachers' loyalty oath, campus political rules and regulations forbidding professors campaigning for university-related legislation without university approval all caused disturbances.

Freak Rifle Shot Bounces Into Window

One of two rifle shots to kill a raccoon glanced off the ground, crossed a creek, and slammed through the window of a Tamalpais Valley home about 8:30 p.m. yesterday, sheriff's officers reported.

No one was injured.

Deputies said Mrs. Judith K. Racely, 545 Northern Avenue, said the slug tore through a rear window sash, broke the window and passed through heavy drapes and a lamp shade.

She called the sheriff's office. Deputies exploring the vicinity found a neighbor, Jack R. Jackson, 610 Wanda Lane, who said he fired a shot from his 30-30 caliber rifle at a stray raccoon, then fired again at close range to make certain the animal was killed.

They said Jackson expressed disbelief that the second shot could have ricocheted, but offered to make restitution for the damage.

Researcher Gives Recipe For Safety

Analyst Says Public Must Be Willing To Pay

STANFORD (AP) — A Stanford Research Institute scientist asserted today that America's highway death toll can be reduced by 90 per cent "by a judicious combination" of remedies.

Richard L. Goen, senior operations analyst, said in a research report that citizens must be willing to pay the price for saving lives on highways.

He suggested reduced speed, an automated enforcement system, removal of large numbers of high risk drivers, compulsory auto safety design, massive expenditures for road safety and new systems for mass transit.

COSTLY PROGRAM

"This study shows," Goen said, "that the really effective remedies will be unpleasant to many people and costly to everyone. The real questions is whether we are sufficiently concerned with saving lives to pay the price."

His report said:

In 1965, 14 million auto accidents killed more than 49,000 persons. Another 1.8 million were injured, 200,000 of them permanently disabled.

If the rate of increase continues, the United States could have an annual auto death toll of 175,000 by 1985.

The economic costs would be $380 billion over the next two decades.

25,000 lives could be saved each year by reducing speeds 20 per cent. This would add 11 minutes per day to the average motorist's driving time.

HIGH RISKS

Another 15,000 lives could be saved by revoking the licenses of some 19 million drivers under 21 or over 70, plus 4 million drivers whose record of violations make them high risks.

He suggested a $10 billion a year, 20-year program for safety in highway systems, high speed mass transit and less emphasis on highways that are so convenient they encourage more auto travel.

"We can choose whatever level of traffic fatalities we desire," Goen said. "This choice is now being made unconsciously and nearly 50,000 people are being killed annually. If the choice were made consciously, a much lower level of fatalities might be selected."

Assembly Urges Fish Protection

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A resolution urging federal intervention to protect California's fishing industry from encroachment by the Russians cleared the Assembly today on a unanimous vote.

Sent to the Senate was a measure by Assemblywoman Pauline Davis, D-Portola, asking Congress, the State Department and Department of the Interior to "take the necessary action to ensure adequate protection to the marine resources" off California's coast.

The resolution also asked that federal agencies continue to monitor the Russian trawling fleet which is fishing now in international waters off the coast of Oregon.

New Satellite Launch Delayed

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — Electrical problems caused postponement today of the scheduled launching tomorrow of a Nimbus weather satellite.

The U.S. Space Agency said the problems in the flight control system of the Thor-Agena launch vehicle were encountered during routine instrumentation checks.

There was no immediate rescheduling of the flight.

Infantrymen Swarm Over Reds' Supplies

Vietnamese Attacks Gain; Bombing Increase Seen

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAIGON (UPI) — American infantrymen today swarmed over a Viet Cong supply complex believed to be the largest in South Viet Nam. They destroyed it and tons of food and supplies with white phosphorous grenades and cigarette lighters.

The defenders fled across the border into the sanctuary of neutralist Cambodia.

U.S. military spokesmen reported that the Vietnamese army and air force are hitting the Communists with renewed vigor after weeks of lessened activity during the political crisis.

TRUCK TRAFFIC

U.S. air attacks on truck traffic moving down from Red China will be intensified as the weather improves in the upper part of North Viet Nam, Washington sources added.

Bad weather in that region is gradually shifting southward.

A battalion of the 1st Infantry Division sweeping the Communist "war zone c" along the Cambodian border found enough food, livestock, and uniforms to outfit about six Communist regiments. They also seized motorized sampans used for transporting the equipment.

BESIDE RIVER

The camp was located beside the Da Ha River about 75 miles northwest of Saigon in the 1,000-yard wide buffer zone along the border where B52s do not bomb for fear of hitting Cambodia.

In Saigon, a military spokesman said 35 U.S. servicemen were killed in action last week and 547 wounded, a substantial drop from the previous week when 89 were killed and 635 wounded.

The Viet Cong suffered heavily during the same one-week period ending April 24 when 694 killed and 89 captured. South Viet Nam lost 93 soldiers killed and 33 missing and other Allied forces in the war reported 32 killed and 36 wounded.

HURLS GRENADE

A Viet Cong terrorist tonight hurled a hand grenade at the headquarters of the U.S. Army's first logistical command motor pool in Saigon. One American soldier was injured in the blast.

The grenade was thrown from a car driving past the motor pool. The terrorist escaped.

spokesmen said two F-4C

In the air war, U.S. spokesmen said two F4C Phantom jets on a reconnaissance mission near Vinh had to dodge at least two Russian-built anti-aircraft missiles and then called in other Air Force F105s to hit the sites. The pilots reported they left the area "engulfed in smoke."

Air Force officials also disclosed that the vital Mu Gia Pass "was put out of commission" again by giant B52 bombers which dumped thousands of pounds of explosives on it during a raid Tuesday.

"This is it. This is where those babies got most of their supplies," said the U.S. Army major commanding the battalion which located the complex of bamboo warehouses containing a treasure trove of supplies near the Cambodia border.

The troopers destroyed more than 6,000 khaki uniforms with

CATHOLICS DEMONSTRATE IN DA NANG

DA NANG, Viet Nam (UPI) —Militant Catholics shouting "down with Buddhists" demonstrated again today in the outskirts of Da Nang. A priest had to restrain youths from march on the downtown section.

It was the second of a scheduled series of anti-Communist, pro-American demonstrations being staged by the Catholics who are worried about the Buddhist drive to set up an elected national assembly within the next five months.

The Catholics are afraid of possible Communist influence in the new government.

Senator Sees 'No Sanctuary' Remark Peril

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., hung a "very dangerous" label today on the administration's "no sanctuary" policy of hot pursuit of enemy fighters over Viet Nam.

But Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said in a separate interview this is a "recognized doctrine" of warfare which he does not believe invites the danger of Red China's intervention in the conflict.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said it is "sound policy to let the Chinese know in advance what is in store for them if they attack our planes over North Viet Nam."

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, noted that there has been no official pronouncement telling where the advanced MIG21s, which have engaged U.S. planes in dogfights, came from.

"But if they come from China and we follow them into China to attack their air fields, I think we are pursuing a very dangerous course," he said. "It could escalate the war."

The issue was brought to the forefront when Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., told the Senate yesterday that the developments must be viewed with gravest concern.

"What will be the Chinese response if her territory is bombed or her airspace invaded?" he asked. "Will the Chinese seek to strike at our bases — in Viet Nam or Thailand, or aboard our aircraft carriers?

"And if they do, what then will our response be — further bombing? And if the scale of bombing increases, will China confine herself to air fighting — or will it send its troops to engage ours on the ground in South Viet Nam?"

Dirksen noted that hot pursuit of the enemy by U.S. planes had not been permitted in the Korean war.

Television Looters Pick With Care

Smooth working burglary, selecting the loot with care, took more than $6,600 worth of television sets yesterday from Klein's TV showroom at 8 Francisco Boulevard.

Less than 24 hours later, two Sacramento men were picked up by Richmond police, who said three of the missing sets were found in their possession.

Between midnight and 8 a.m. yesterday, the burglars forced the showroom's front door and picked over the sets, moving some of them about. Taken were 15 television sets, eight of them color sets, with one valued at $1,200. Several were in the $400 to $700 price range.

The burglars must have used a truck, police said, because of the weight and bulk of some of the floor models stolen.

Fingerprints were taken from three of the sets moved about. Serial numbers sent out on teletyep by San Rafael police led to a call from Richmond early today. Police there said they were holding William Lee Duval, 29, and Raymond F. DeSilva, 23.

The two were stopped on Cutting Boulevard at 28th Street at 1:30 a.m. by Police Officer Marvin Turner, who saw several televisions sets on their pickup truck and became suspicious.

San Rafael Police Inspector Richard Douglas went to Richmond to return Duval and DeSilva.

No Chinese Jet Pilot Evidence

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Pentagon spokesman said today "we have no evidence that Communist Chinese aircraft or aircraft operating from Communist Chinese bases have been involved "in recent clashes with U.S. jets over North Viet Nam.

"The evidence we have indicates that the aircraft involved have been North Vietnamese and are being flown by North Vietnamese pilots," said Phil G. Goulding, deputy assistant secretary of defense.

The Pentagon issued its statement against a background of continuing speculation over the origin of Communist MIGs, including fast MIG21s, which have dueled with U.S. F4C Phantom jets and other U.S. craft on repeated occasions since last Friday.

Stowaway Faces Mental Commitment

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Liu Chai-ming, the 17-year-old Chinese stowaway whose plight evoked enough sympathy to prevent his deportation, now may face commitment to a mental hospital.

Dr. James Stubblebine, director of the San Francisco Mental Health Service, said Wednesday a petition for a commitment hearing has been taken out. The hearing tentatively is set for next Tuesday.

"There's some indication that he's moderately or even severly mentally ill," said Stubblebine.

Liu, now confined to the psychiatric ward in San Francisco General Hospital, stowed away on the liner President Wilson when it left Hong Kong for San Francisco. He was ordered deported when the ship arrived last month, but pleas and offers of help from the Chinese community saved him.

Liu began to wander away from homes and institutions where he was being cared for and walked off one job, in a restaurant.

Three Drown; Tremendous Rains Bring Dallas Flood

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)— Three persons drowned today when tremendous rains flooded hundreds of persons from their homes in Dallas and a northern suburb, Garland.

Firemen axed through an auto's back window to free a woman from the car which had been swept into a swollen creek, but the man with her was trapped and drowned.

Robert Buck and his wife, Adrienne, of San Antonio, who moved to Texas recently from East Point, Ga., both drowned when their car was swept from a road into a creek.

At dawn, the downpour which had been falling at about an inch an hour subsided, and Mayor Eric Jonsson said "we think three are going to be all the loss of life, but if there's more rain we'll have more trouble."

Fire department boats, carried by station wagons to scenes of local flooding, plucked people from trees, rooftops, and the roofs of cars in flooded expressway underpasses.

Water got into the Ford Motor Co. assembly plant in northeast Dallas, forcing it to close until tomorrow, idling 1,500 workers.

Patrolmen walked along swollen streams seeking signs of six persons reported missing by relatives and friends, and as dawn began to light the sky, shreds of underclothing were found clinging to trees near the water level.

"We've had more water than this, but not the drownings," said a police department spokesman, who called it the worst Dallas flood in recent years.

Police in suburban Garland said between 150 and 200 persons have been evacuated from an area surrounding Duck Creek, which runs almost into the center of the town.

The flooding followed rainstorms in the area, which also pounded parts of Oklahoma and Southern Illinois. Wet weather also covered broad areas today from the northern Plains to the Atlantic Coast.

A small tornado struck the southeast section of Granite City, Ill., near St. Louis today, but there were no injuries. Property damage was minor.

Earlier, twisters hit several communities in Texas and Oklahoma but no injuries were reported. Several houses and barns were destroyed and others damaged.

Barnes, Balloon Crash Again

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Tracy Barnes and his aspirations to cross the United States in a hot-air balloon have crashed again.

Barnes sustained back injuries when he was thrown from his gondola as it struck a rocky peak in the Laguna Mountains yesterday. The $15,000 balloon and gondola crashed about five miles away.

An air search found Barnes, and a deputy sheriff hiked into the rugged terrain about 55 miles southeast of here. The two men spent the night, and the sheriff's office said a rescue party would bring the men out today.

A spokesman for Barnes said he didn't know whether the aeronaut planned to continue his transcontinental flight that began April 9.

At that time, Barnes, 27, of Chester, S.C., flew about 10 miles before bad weather forced him down. Two days and a postponement later, a vent stuck and he and a companion had to parachute to safety.

Since then Barnes repaired the craft and waited for favorable winds.

He took off from here Tuesday night but radioed Wednesday that the air was turbulent and he was descending.

Upper air data on the weather was obtained for years by attaching instruments to airplanes. Now, however, radiosondes are attached to balloons sent aloft by the weather bureau.

Tax Check Starts On Sen. Dodd's Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service said today it has ordered a tax investigation into more than $100,000 raised for Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., at testimonial dinners in Connecticut.

The disclosure followed by one day an accusation by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., that the Johnson administration had embarked on a "backstage plan" to relieve Dodd from any tax liability for the funds.

Associates of Dodd have contended the money, some of which was used to pay personal expenses, represents tax-free gifts.

But Williams said IRS officials have quietly approached some senators during the past two weeks suggesting present law might be fuzzy and some clarifying legislation may be needed.

IRS has denied the charge.

An IRS source said today the tax investigation of Dodd will be centered basically in Connecticut but could extend into Washington.

A tax claim against the senator is probable, the source added, if the investigation shows the testimonial dinners were not held out of appreciation for the senator's service and were campaign fund-raising affairs.

Search Resumes For Peru Plane

LIMA, Peru (AP)—A search resumed today for the wreckage of a Peruvian airliner which apparently crashed in the Andes Mountains with 49 persons aboard. Five were Americans.

The four-engine Lineas Aereas Nacionales Constellation disappeared Wednesday on a 375-mile flight from Lima to Cuzco.

The Lima airport said the plane radioed a distress call 10 minutes after taking off, and police at Cuzco said they had a report it crashed at Cocloccha, 170 miles south of Lima.

The airline said the plane carried 43 passengers and a crew of 6.

Watts Junior College Gains

SACRAMENTO (UPI — A bill providing $350,000 to start work on a junior college to serve the riot-torn Watts District of Los Angeles has received its initial legislative approval.

The Assembly Education Committee yesterday endorsed the bill, by Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, and sent it to the Ways and Means Committee where it faces another hearing.

The proposed school would be the 10th junior college in Los Angeles. As originally introduced, the bill would have called for a trade and technical school. However, the legislation was amended to create a regular junior college.

Mexico School Riot Demands Granting Seen

Officials Selecting New Rector As Mob Stays In Control

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Official sources indicated today the government may yield to the demands of student rioters who seized the Mexico University campus Tuesday and forced Rector president Ignacio Chavez to resign.

The university's 14-man board of directors met yesterday to choose a new rector, as demanded by the rioters. There was no immediate reaction to their demands for extensive revisions in courses and regulations.

MOB CONTROL

The mob was still in control of the campus last night, although tension had eased. Most of the university staff, including the deans of most of its schools, were forced to resign with Chavez.

Official sources denied that the rioters were Communist-controlled, although mob leaders had appealed Tuesday for public support "In the name of comrade Lenin" and the basic issue which set off this week's violence was the expulsion of two students for distributing Communist propaganda.

"We are worried that outside Mexico the belief may grow that this is a Communist movement," said a high government official. "It is not. It has to do strictly with academic matters."

NO POLICE

The official said the government has no intention of using police or troops to remove the rioters. He said the students will almost certainly accept the rector chosen by the university board.

Student leaders said they are "confident that the board will name an acceptable candidate."

Rioters armed with clubs and bicycle chains held Chavez prisoner in his office for more than six hours before he resigned under the threat of being turned over to the mob.

Helmeted riot police who ringed the campus at the height of the melee were withdrawn yesterday except for one truckload standing by about a mile from the university grounds.

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese government sources said today that Red China's third nuclear explosion, expected early next month, may be a preliminary hydrogen bomb test.

Sources in Washington reported last night that the U.S. government has advised its allies to expect another atomic explosion in China.

Volcano Wipes Out Village In East Java

JARKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A volcanic eruption in heavily populated East Java has demolished one village and is threatening the town of Blitar, reports from the area said today.

The 5,678-foot volcano, Mount Kelut, erupted Monday night. Nine persons have been reported killed so far, but the toll is considered certain to climb.

Civil defense and Red Cross officials in Jakarta, about 400 miles west of the area, have no details on casualties yet.

Antara, the official news agency, said the eruption wiped out the village of Bambunan, about two miles from the crater. It was not known how many persons lived there.

Civil defense officials said hot lava had reached the edge of Blitar, about 10 miles south of Mount Kelut. The town, with a population of 28,000, is in an area where many of President Sukarno's relatives live.

Hot ash was reported falling more than six miles from the volcano and lava, sand and ashes reportedly filled the Sima, Dermo and Badak rivers.

Antara said one tea and coffee plantation was under a blanket of ashes. Other reports said a bridge collapsed and four houses several miles away were flattened by lava and ashes.

Indonesia's last volcano disaster was the 1963 eruption of Mount Agung, in Bali. An estimated 1,500 persons were killed then.

The gold spike signaling completion of the nation's transcontinental rail link of the Central Pacific and Union Pacific was driven at Promontory, Utah, on May 19, 1869.

Supervisor Candidates Argue Bay, Fill, Planning, Economy

Three candidates for county supervisor last night argued over planning, filling the bay and economy in government before about 150 members of the Peacock Gap Homeowners Assn.

The three, John F. McInnis, former San Rafael mayor; Dr. William F. Upton, county plannings commissioner, and Melvin S. Warenback, president of the Terra Linda Community Services District Board, each emphasized his experience in government.

They oppose each other for the First District seat now held by Byron W. Leydecker, who is not seeking another term. The primary election will be June 7.

McInnis called planning and economy the main issues.

"The cost of local government is excessively high," he said. "Property taxes are causing a real concern. I find a universal demand that something be done about it."

He said county government property taxes have gone up about 40 per cent in the last five years in Marin. "There's been no 40 per cent increase in services," he charged.

McInnis claimed there is a lack of cooperation between the cities and the county on planning, especially at the staff level, and blamed this on the board of supervisors.

"Also," he said, "there never has been a forthright approach to bringing in new industry."

Upton, who read his opening remarks, said he felt planning was of paramount importance, and added he has fought for conservation of open spaces and of the bay.

"I do not merely give lip service to this conservationism," he added. He spoke of his work for passage of the McAteer-Petris Bill, which established the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission, of which he is a member.

Upton denigrated planning by the City of San Rafael, saying the city fathers, including McInnis, wanted to fill tidelands. "It must be well remembered that if it weren't for an aroused public citizenry in these affected areas, the dredges would be busy even now in our front yards," he charged.

"I feel a little left out," commented Warenback when his turn came. "My opponents refer to each other, but not to me."

Warenback said high local taxes are caused mainly by the proliferation of special districts, but went on to say the special district he helps direct is operated with great economy. He promised similar economy for the county.

On industrial growth for the county, he said: "We need a broader tax base, but it's not that simple to get industry. Industries don't come for many reasons. We all know transportation is the main one.

"But you can't just offer a tax break, or special zoning."

Upton, answering McInnis on the question of taxes, said special districts and, especially, schools, are mainly responsible for high tax rates.

"The county services are basic. You can't easily curtail them," he said.

Warenback said he would seek consolidation of special districts. He also mentioned the new voting devices as examples of imaginative economies in government.

McInnis retorted that he had been speaking of county taxes only, not schools or special districts.

He then mentioned that while he was on the San Rafael City Council, the city put through an off-street parking program, doubled the size of the library, relighted city streets, and planned and financed a new city hall.

"In San Rafael," he went on, "we paid off all our debts, left a cash surplus to pay for the city hall, and cut the tax rate. If this is poor government, I'll eat it."

Paper Treasurer Booked On Theft

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Donald J. Gordon, charged with looting a paper firm of which he was treasurer, was booked yesterday at the San Francisco County Jail on a grand theft indictment.

Gordin, 38, is charged with taking $90,000 from Bonestell & Co., 113-year-old firm that was forced out of business after his disappeared in September.

FBI agents arrested him in Cleveland March 17 and sent him to Miami where he was charged with embezzling $25,000. Police said the man had repaid that money and Miami police then released him.

Daniel K. Beswick of Mill Valley was president and principal owner of Bonestell and Co.

Holdup By Men Wearing Skirts

PASADENA (AP) — It was business as usual in a Bank of America branch here until one patron jumped on a bench, pulled a pistol from under a skirt and told the clerks and 30 customers it was a holdup.

A partner, likewise dressed in a skirt, blouse and bandana, helped the pistol-wielder carry out more than $10,000 and escape in a waiting car.

The unlady-like action was explained, said officers, by witnesses who said both bandits actually were men.

Fine Is Given In Driving Case

Johnnie Dell Deal, 41, of 843 Rincon Way, Santa Venetia, was fined $166 and placed on one year's probation yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving on private property.

She was arrested Jan. 22 by Larkspur police in a parking lot.

Giants Owner Recovers Car

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Horace Stoneham, owner of the San Francisco Giants, got back today his stolen new Cadillac convertible, and the gasoline credit card in the glove compartment.

The car was recovered in the Tenderloin district and two men were booked on suspicion of automobile theft. They are Alan Selby, 25, of 2225 Deborah Way, Santa Clara, scion of a Pacific Heights family, and Gilbert Fullam, 20, San Francisco

Police said Selby indicated Fullam thought it was Selby's car and was not aware it had been taken from Stoneham's garage Wednesday.

SEC Charges Manipulation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Securities and Exchange Commission yesterday charged the two top officers of Georgia-Pacific Corp. with manipulating the company's stock in acquiring four other firms, including a San Francisco-based paper company.

Owen R. Cheatham, chairman of the board of directors, and Robert B. Pamplin, president and a director of G-P, were charged with using their position as trustees of the company's employee stock bonus plan to purchase thousands of shares of common stock to drive up the price.

Georgia-Pacific, one of the world's largest lumber companies, is based in Portland. Also charged was Cheatham's secretary, Dorothy D. Brooks.

WALK TO DEATH

War Allows Salary Hikes For Officials

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The attorney general's office ruled today that the United States is at war in Viet Nam and, therefore, salaries of elected county and municipal officials can be raised during their terms of office.

The state Constitution prohibits such increases other than in a war period.

"It is our opinion that the military situation in Viet Nam is such that a state of war within the meaning of the Constitution and the government code exists, so that the prohibition against salary increase is suspended," said the opinion, written by E. Clement Shupe, Jr., deputy attorney general.

The opinion was asked by Assemblyman John T. Knox, Contra Costa Democrat.

Stead was flying the 85-horsepower plane in a pattern with other aircraft when suddenly, he pulled out and attempted the landing.

The plane, which carried no radio, was making a normal approach when it hit and nosed over on the northeast runway but did not burn, witnesses reported.

The truck struck both the mother, Mrs. Terezia Kvassay, and the daughter, Mrs. Cornelia Szalkay, 62, but the daughter suffered only cuts and bruises.

WAR

Communist Chinese labels, 800 pairs of the black pajamas the guerrilla nightfighters use, hundreds of tons of rice and salt, 16 motorized sampans and dozens of bamboo warehouses.

Army officers pointed across the river into Cambodia at chutes on the opposite banks used for loading sampans with rice. The supply dump was about 75 miles northwest of Saigon and marked one of the key crossing points for the Ho Chi Minh Trail from Cambodia into South Viet Nam.

Just beyond the burning Viet Cong base camp the jungle was scarred and pitted from bomb craters and shredded trees caused by B52 raids. But right around the grass was green, testimony of the B52s no-trespass approach.

The GIs, part of the 1st Infantry Division's "Operation Birmingham," put the whole area to the torch. The Viet Cong fled after only light resistance.

Government forces waged 77 battalion-sized operations against the Viet Cong in the past week, an increase of 10 per cent, and the air force stepped up its sorties against the enemy by 30 per cent.

The Viet Cong mostly continued to avoid contact with American forces, and U.S. casualties dropped sharply last week. Government losses also were down, but Viet Cong casualties increased somewhat, reflecting the larger part being played again by the South Vietnamese.

Birth Control Study Continues

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI's birth control commission announced today it could not yet set a date for its conclusions on contraception. The commission explained it wanted to issue a definite report. The Pope had said he wanted by June 24 some firm indication of recommendations on the question of contraception.

Pope Paul formed the commission in June 1964. It has been deadlocked almost from the start by members unable to agree whether the church should allow limited use of birth control pills or should accept general use of contraceptives.

Lindsay Seeks Transit Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) —New York's Republican Mayor John V. Lindsay appealed to Congress today for "large amounts of federal funds" to help big cities build subways and other mass transportation facilities.

Testifying before the Senate housing subcommittee, Lindsay supported President Johnson's proposals for federal aid to urban mass transportation.

He said Congress in the past has provided "billions of dollars in federal grants" for urban highway networks, but far from resolving big city transportation problems, these highways have only added to "the congestion, noise and pollution" of cities.

Bill Increases Cost Of Traffic Tickets

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A bill designed to help school driver training programs keep pace with the growing numbers of pupils was approved today by the Senate Finance Committee but members limited the measure's provisions to one year.

The bill increases from $2 to $3 the portion of every $20 traffic violation ticket that goes to support driver education. Assemblyman Richard Donovan, R-Chula Vista, proposed that the bill stay in effect for only two years while more thorough studies are made of driver training.

Terence Hallinan Denied Practice

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Terence Hallinan, 29-year-old executive secretary of the W. E. B. DuBois Clubs, said today he has been refused the right to practice law by a committee of the California Bar Association. He said he would appeal to the state Supreme Court.

Hallinan, a son of Vincent Hallinan of Belvedere, himself a controversial attorney because of his political and social views, contends he is being kept out of a law carreer because of his participation in civil rights demonstrations.

He passed the examination in March, 1965. Normal procedure would have admitted him to practice by May of that year. First a sub-committee, and later a full committee of bar examiners, heard his case. The full committee of seven reported its findings to Hallinan yesterday.

NAILED IN TRUCK CAB

With a length of pipe driven through his body, truck driver Joseph Page is eased from the cab of his truck after police cut him free with hacksaws yesterday in Yonkers, N.Y. Page's rig veered off the New York State Throughway and rammed a chain-link fence. The pipe pierced his abdomen, nailing him to the rear of the cab. He was rushed to a hospital for surgery. ZORBA, CAUFIELD

Priest Describes His Idea Of Saint

DENVER (UPI)— A Roman Catholic priest from Sedona, Ariz., yesterday described as "contemporary models of saintliness" Zorba the Greek and Holden Caulfield of J. D. Salinger's novel "Catcher in the Rye."

"Most of our people don't know the difference between a stuffed shirt and a saint," said the Rev. William McNamara. "The contemporary model of saintliness is the early mystic. That's why I like Zorba the Greek."

Father McNamara, founder of the Spiritual Life Institute of America at Sedona, said Zorba "was an unflinching lover of life" who insisted that "no man can live without madness. Only men who live break through boundaries," he said.

The 40-year-old priest said a characteristic of all genuine saints was a compassion for the world and by that rule, the teen-aged Caulfield qualified.

"His quest for God was overpowering, devouring," Father Namara said. "Best of all, he said that 'the whole Christian experience is that if you see Christ, you are a Christian. All else is talk.'"

Senate Transit Tube Aid Passes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The San Francisco - Oakland areas's hopes of moving ahead faster with its rapid transit plans have received a boost from senators.

The Senate sent to the Assembly yesterday a bill by Sen. J. Eugene McAteer, D - San Francisco, which would raise the bond limit for financing a rapid transit tube between the two cities from $133 million to $180 million.

The Bay Area Rapid Transit District had asked for the extra money to cover funding of the tube, railroad tracks and approaches.

Kings County was named after the river which Spanish explorers in 1805 called "Rio de los Santos Reyes," River of the Holy Kings. The reference was to the three Magi who came to Bethlehem to adore the infant Jesus.

Unruh Barrier Awaits School Bond Measure

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Before Assemblymen today is a $295 million bond issue proposal to finance higher education construction.

The bill by Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, was quickly approved in the Senate Wednesday on a 27-0 vote, but it may face tougher opposition in the Assembly.

If the measure clears the legislature, it would be placed on the November general election ballot.

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, has said that the bond money won't be needed if personal income taxes could be counted on the administration-backed accrual system. The system counts money owed the state but not yet received.

Unruh is backed by most Republicans, but Gov. Brown's forces disagree.

Stiern said $332.5 million would be needed for university, state and junior college construction through fiscal 1967-68, according to Finance Department estimates.

The record bond money, he said, would provide $295 million, $9.9 million would come from tidelands revenues — pending in another bill — and $27.4 million from 1964 bonds approved by the voters.

Brown Rules Out Court Position

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. Edmund G. Brown says even an appointment to the U.S. Supreme Court would not tempt him to break a commitment to complete the full four years of a third term if he is re-elected.

"I have made a firm commitment," Brown said in an interview in New York where he is attending a convention of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

In Los Angeles, Brown's chief opponent in the Democratic primary, Mayor Samuel Yorty, said that the Communist Party is supporting Brown. The governor's campaign manager quickly denied the charge.

"He has the support of the Communist Party against me," Yorty said, "because I'm anti-Communist."

Roger Kent of Kentfield, a co-chairman of Brown's campaign, retorted: "This little man Yorty has flipped his lid." Kent asked whether Yorty' next charge would be that convicts, rapists and drug peddlers also supported the governor.

Brown's statement concerning the Supreme Court appointment was made in connection with inquiries about Lloyd N. Hand, a Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor.

According to various rumors, President Johnson persuaded his friend and former aide, Hand, to seek the second spot on the Democratic ticket. The argument contends Johnson would then give Brown a federal job and Hand would run the state.

"I don't think that Hand is running at the President's bidding," Brown said. "In fact, I think he is running against the President's will."

Brown supports incumbent Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson who he says will "win and win big" against Hand and Thomas W. Braden, the third Democrat running for the post.

Court Martial Date Postponed

Start of the court martial of A 1c James O. Young on a first degree murder charge has been postponed from May 9 to May 17, according to Hamilton Air Force Base officials.

Airman Young is charged with the Christmas morning murder of A 1c Robert M. Jennings after a drinking party in their barracks.

Maj. Gen. Carroll W. McColpin, commander of the Fourth Air Force, postponed the court martial at request of both defense and prosecution, base officials said.

Grand Jury Indicts Two For Escape

Two San Quentin prisoners whose freedom lasted less than nine hours were indicted yesterday by the Marin County Grand Jury for escape and for theft of a truck.

Delbert McClary, 25, and Glenn Kinsey, 24, allegedly fled a minimum security dormitory about 400 yards west of the main prison wall on April 13.

They allegedly stole the truck, owned by Vincent Pallavicini of 31 Skyline Drive, San Anselmo, from the No. 4 San Rafael fire station at 46 West Railroad Avenue, then abandoned it near Yuba City.

They were arrested by Sutter County sheriff's officers and returned to prison.

McClary was convicted April 13, 1962, in Monterey County of escape during a jail sentence. Kinsey was convicted July 3, 1962, of armed robbery.

Brown Makes Hurried Tour In Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — California Gov. Edmund G. Brown swept through the nation's capital yesterday seeking solutions to a variety of his state's current problems, including seaways, freeways, water pollution and smog.

He told reporters that Secretary of State Dean Rusk promised to give "serious consideration" to the governor's recommendation for negotiations with the Soviet Union over Russian fishing off the U.S. Pacific Coast.

TREATY PROBLEM

But Brown told reporters that the secretary had told him it might be difficult to negotiate a treaty on a unilateral basis because of treaties with other countries.

After a later meeting with Commerce Secretary John T. Connor, Brown said California still had a chance of getting $235 million in interstate highway funds originally earmarked for San Francisco but rejected by the San Francisco County Board of Supervisors.

Brown said commerce officials felt the Century Freeway in Los Angeles was a "good one" and that he was optimistic the state might get the money for that project.

NO COMMITMENT

But Brown warned that federal officials could not make any commitment on the funds. He said they were re-examining the entire freeway system in light of a shortage of funds for its completion.

After his meeting with Rusk, the California governor moved on to Capito l Hill where he urged Congress to pass pending legislation to provide federal funds to help states and local agencies fight water pollution.

Brown told the Senate Air and Water Pollution subcommithee that California had the legal machinery for keeping the state's waters clean.

MEASURE ALTERED ON CONSTITUTION

Sponsor, Commission Leader Charge State Study Wast Of Time,Money

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Senators have rewritten the Assembly's constitution revision measure, brushing aside most of the original proposal and opening the door to increased pensions for retiring lawmakers.

"The Assembly won't go for it," said the constitutional amendment's sponsor, Assemblyman James R. Mills, D-San Diego. If the amendment clears the legislature, it would have to go on the November ballot.

Mills' comments came after the Senate Governmental Efficiency Committee yesterday threw out the exceutive, legislative and judicial articles in the measure—rewrote it — and then sent it to the Senate Finance Committee.

Judge Bruce W. Sumner, chairman of the California Constitution Revision Commission—which drew up the proposals—said later he was "stunned" by the Senate committee's action. Sumner immediately called a meeting of the 68-member blue ribbon commission to confer in Los Angeles Monday to decide what action should be taken. The commission was approved by the voters in 1962.

"Unless there is drastic action before this measure leaves the legislature, we may find we have wasted the time of the California leaders on the commission, the money of the taxpayers and the good will of the voters of this state," Sumner said.

Retained by the Senate committee were proposals calling for annual general legislative sessions of 166 calendar days and a provision allowing lawmakers to set their own pay.

Under the present constitution —which hasn't been revised since 1879—the legislature meets in general session in odd-numbered years; and in budget session in even - numbered years. Pay is set at $500 a month.

The major change made by senators was on the pension plan.

Overwhelmingly endorsed by the Assembly, the Mills' amendment would have prevented a lawmaker voluntarily retiring this year—or defeated at the polls—from receiving a pension based on more than his present constitutionally - set salary, $500 a month. Although the amount received would vary—according to years of service in the legislature — the pension percentage would have to be based on the $500 figure.

The Governmental Efficiency Committee, however, knocked out that ceiling. Thus, if the legislature approves a pay hike this year or next year, the retiring lawmakers could take advantage of it.

A bill still before assemblymen by Assembly Majority Leader Jerome R. Waldie, D-Antioch, would limit the pension percentage to two-thirds of any future pay raise. But the revised Mills amendment would nullify the Waldie measure and some lawmakers could receive more than 100 per cent of their pay in pension funds.

Mills said some retiring senators, affected by reapportionment, could receive more than $20,000 a year in pension cash under the Senate version. He said the amendment, if it receives two - thirds approval in the Senate, would go to a two-house conference committee.

Accrual Plan Stymied By Unruh, Republicans

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown today faced the problem of how to regain control of his runaway fiscal program after suffering a major setback at the hands of Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh and a solid bloc of Republicans.

In a dramatic test of strength between Unruh and the governor, the speaker — with solid support from 28 of 31 Republican assemblymen—defeated attemps yesterday to pass Brown's accrual accounting plan.

On a 41-31 vote, Unruh, D-Inglewood, instead won approval of his motion to send the accrual measure back to committee, where the speaker said he would attempt major amendments.

Brown has pinned his hopes for balancing the record $1.62 billion budget without a tax raise on accrual — a system of counting as revenues money that is owed the state but not yet collected.

Republicans have refused to accept the budget unless the governor extends accrual to all state revenues, including personal income taxes and bank and corporation levies.

Unruh attempted in a closed caucus to put off the debate, but his fellow Democrats voted 23-15 to take up the matter yesterday.

When it came to a showdown on the floor, however, Unruh won. He got the support of only 12 of the Assembly's 49 Democrats, but that was all he needed.

On the floor and after the vote, Unruh said he would move to expand the accrual measure, already passed by the Senate, to take in personal income taxes, as recommended by the GOP.

His plan, said the speaker, would raise another $250 million through accrual and would rule out the need of a $295 million higher education construction bond issue this year. Under the governor's plan, accrual would raise about $240 million, enough to balance the budget.

Minister Must Be Shock-Proof

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Hawaii's famed Waikiki resort area needs a shock-proof minister willing at 3 a.m. to counsel on such problems as prostitution and babies born out of wedlock, a church board decided today.

The Board for Homeland Ministries of the United Church of Christ voted financial support for a non-denominational minister there, ready at any time to meet with beach boys, tourists, entertainers, run-aways and service men.

A statement announcing the action said illegitimacy, prostitution and suicides are on the increase at Waikiki.

A man, 6 foot tall, between 25 and 29 years of age, should weigh 172 pounds.

Poets' Group Denounces Poet Choice

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California's official poet laureate was denounced today by the California Federation of Chaparral Poets, the state's biggest poetry organization.

The big poetry group said in a resolution that it "refuses to acknowledge or respect the appointment" of Garrigus to the post by the legislature.

The resolution says that Garrigus, named to the honorary post this year, "was not endorsed by even one literary organization in the state . . . has written doggerel for the legislature . . . (and) has caused this state to be ridiculed in literary circles throughout the nation . ." Garrigus, a school teacher, plans to retire from the legislature this year.

40 Per Cent Wait Until Last Tax Day

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Franchise Tax Board reports that two out of every five Californians—nearly two million taxpayers—waited until April 15, the last legal day, to file their state income tax returns.

The board said yesterday it will take 420 workers in Sacramento until May 1 just to open and sort the returns at the State Fairgrounds.

Based on past experience, the board said, nearly 40,000 Californians will have paid too much — and will get nearly $2 million back in refunds. Another 150,000 will have made errors, the board said, and will owe the state an additional $3.5 million.

Burglary Brings Year Sentence

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court today sentenced Samuel Wesley James, 43, to a year in county jail for the Jan. 16 burglary of Lafargue Laundry and Dry Cleaners, San Rafael.

He also placed him on three years probation.

James, an ex-convict residing at 1333 Fourth Street, San Rafael, was arrested inside the laundry at 1110 Third Street by San Rafael police, who said a rear door had been forced.

High School Teacher Would Rather Switch

For the second time in a month, Marin Junior College District trustees will have the chance tonight to hire an experienced Marin County high school teacher for much less money than he makes at his present job.

The prospective employee is Gordon Chan, biology teacher at Sir Francis Drake High School for 11 years and football and track coach there for the first 10 years.

Chan, who College President Stephen E. Epler wants to hire as biology instructor, is at the top of the Tamalpais High School District's salary schedule, making $12,150 a year. Dr. Epler is asking he be hired at $10,240 annually. Under a high school district teacher committee proposal, Shan's salary at the high school would rise to $12,700 next year.

Two weeks ago, the college board agreed to hire Farhad Moezzi, head of the art department at San Rafael High School, to teach art at the college for more than $3,000 less than he would have received next year at the high school.

Chan, who has a master's degree from Stanford University, has taught night classes in biology and summer classes in Marine biology at the college since 1964. He has been active in work for the college's Marine Biology Station at Bolinas.

The science teacher would not say if he would accept the job if offered, but added: "Money is not the intent of vocation. I wouldn't be teaching if it were."

The college board, which meets at 8 p.m. in room G-3 of the college Physical Education Building, will also consider hiring seven other instructors recommended by Epler.

Hearing Session Set At Gallinas

An all-day workshop for parents of children with hearing problems will be held starting at 8 a.m. Saturday at Gallinas School on North San Pedro Road in Santa Venetia.

It will be sponsored by the Northern region of the California Assn. of Parents of Deaf and Hard-of-Hearing Children.

Panels at the workshop will deal with vocational training, pre-school problems and those of teen-agers with hearing defects.

Police Solve Thefts By 'Fort' Discovery

A search for a runaway boy Monday put Corte Madera police on the trail of a band of seven youthful burglars from Redwood High School and led to solution of four burglaries, Police Lt. David McIntosh said today.

Two members of the burglary ring, which specialized in liquor thefts -- a 14-year-old Kentfield boy and his 15-year-old friend from Corte Madera—were booked on charges of burglary in Juvenile Hall yesterday. Another Corte Madera boy, 14 was cited on the same charge.

Corte Madera police today were still questioning youths who may be implicated in the crimes, all of which occurred this month. McIntosh said about four other boys from Corte Madera and Larkspur will be booked or cited on burglary charges.

McIntosh and Officer Charles E. Newman, acting on a tip, they went Monday to search for a 14-year-old runaway Corte Madera boy along the Northwestern Pacific Railroad spur to Larkspur.

They saw the youth dash out of some bushes opposite Redwood High School in the north side of the tracks, radioed to Larkspur police to pick him up, and went to see where he came from.

On them ud flats below, hidden by bushes, they found a wooden "fort" with a plywood floor, sleeping bag, overstuffed chair and quilts. In the "fort" they found wine and liquor stolen from the John R. Polach home at 53 Hickory Avenue, Corte Madera, Saturday night.

The runaway boy, halted by Larkspur police, gave McIntosh and Newman the names of other youths who used the "fort." All were taken to the police station and fingerprinted.

The prints of the Kentfield boy matched fingerprints at the home of John H. Carlsen, 62 Birch Avenue, Corte Madera, after burglars took $25 cash and $20 worth of liquor there April 2, McIntosh said.

The boy first denied all knowledge of the burglary but, after his mother took him aside for private questioning, admitted his part and said he was accompanied by five other youths, police related.

McIntosh said the youths have since admitted burglaries at the Carlsen and Polach homes and said they tried to break into a house at 37 Birch Avenue last Saturday night but were scared off.

They also admitted furnishing their "fort" with a bedspread and an oversutffed chair from a house in the 100 block of Birch Avenue sometime in the last month. That theft was never reported, McIntosh said.

Johnson School Cuts Jolted By Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House Appropriations Committee threw a half billion dollar jolt into President Johnson's economy drive today, approving a pumped-up $10.5 billion money bill for health, welfare, school and related federal functions.

It thus turned down Johnson's plans to reduce, eliminate, or stave off increases in federal aid for impacted school districts, college loans, vocational aid, land grant college assistance, and medical grants and research.

South Marin Rainbow Cloud Reported Seen

Southern Marin residents reported seeing a "fish-shaped" cloud, tinted with the colors of the rainbow, floating in the sky yesterday between 12:30 and 1 p.m.

What caused thes trange cloud in an otherwise clear blue sky was not determined. A Hamilton Air Force Base spokesman said today the base had no report of the cloud and, from descriptions given by those who saw it, had no idea what might have caused it.

Mrs. Penny Fuchs of 20 Edgehill Road, Mill Valley, noticed the cloud at 12:30 p.m., describing it as being in a "fish-bone pattern."

"It hung straight across the sky in a straight line, was rosy pink in color, and drifted toward the sea," she reported. She said the cloud remained about 20 minutes before the wind blew it away.

Police Lt. William Walsh of Mill Valley described the cloud as rainbow-colored. He said the police department received one call reporting the cloud.

Mrs. William Meredith of 600 Panoramic Highway, Mill Valley, and her neighbor, Mrs. Charles Gregory, 602 Panoramic Highway, also viewed it, Mrs. Meredith reporting the cloud headed from Stinson Beach toward Sausalito.

In Stinson Beach, Mrs. Arthur Menzies and Mrs. Roberta Shockey saw the cloud, describing it as "a very large Japanese carp in blues and greens ond orange."

Governor Plans To Attend Center Cornerstone Event

Gov. Edmund G. Brown will come to Marin to take part in the cornerstone laying for the Hall of Justice Wing at Marin Civic Center May 25, members of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs learned last night.

This came in a report by Harold Stockstad of Mill Valley, who has been planning the ceremony since the council was asked to help by Byron W. Leydecker, chairman of the Board of Supervisors.

Directors scheduled a special meeting for May 10 to discuss arguments for and against the proposed $4.3 million county park bond issue. The proposal will go before voters June 7.

They set the meeting after they were asked to suport the bonds by Mrs. Aline McClain, a member of the County Park and Recreation Commission. Directors said they did not yet know enough about the measure to take a stand.

A committee led by Michael Harris of Sausalito was named to decide what the council can do in the field of education. Directors spent much of their two-hour session trying to decide whether education is a proper area for their concern.

Stockstad said another committee, formed last month to look into the county's personnel practices, has been asked to do nothing for a month or two. He said Julius Selinger, chairman of the County Personnel Commision, had asked the group to wait and see if the commission's differences with the board of supervisors can resolve themselves.

Rockefeller Signs New Divorce Measure

ALBANY (UPI) —Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who was divorced in an out-of-state action in 1962, last night signed New York's first major divorce reform bill in 179 years.

The bill ends New York's status as the last state in the union to recognize marital infidelity as the only grounds for divorce and gives it instead one of the most liberal statutes in the nation. Most of the provisions will not take effect until Sept. 1, 1967, however.

Undersecretary Mann Quits Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today that President Johnson has accepted with regret the resignation of Thomas C. Mann, a fellow Texan, as undersecretary of state for economic affairs.

Mann's resignation, after 24 years of service with the federal government, will become effective June 1. No successor has been selected.

Mann, a specialist in Latin-American affairs, intends to enter private business.

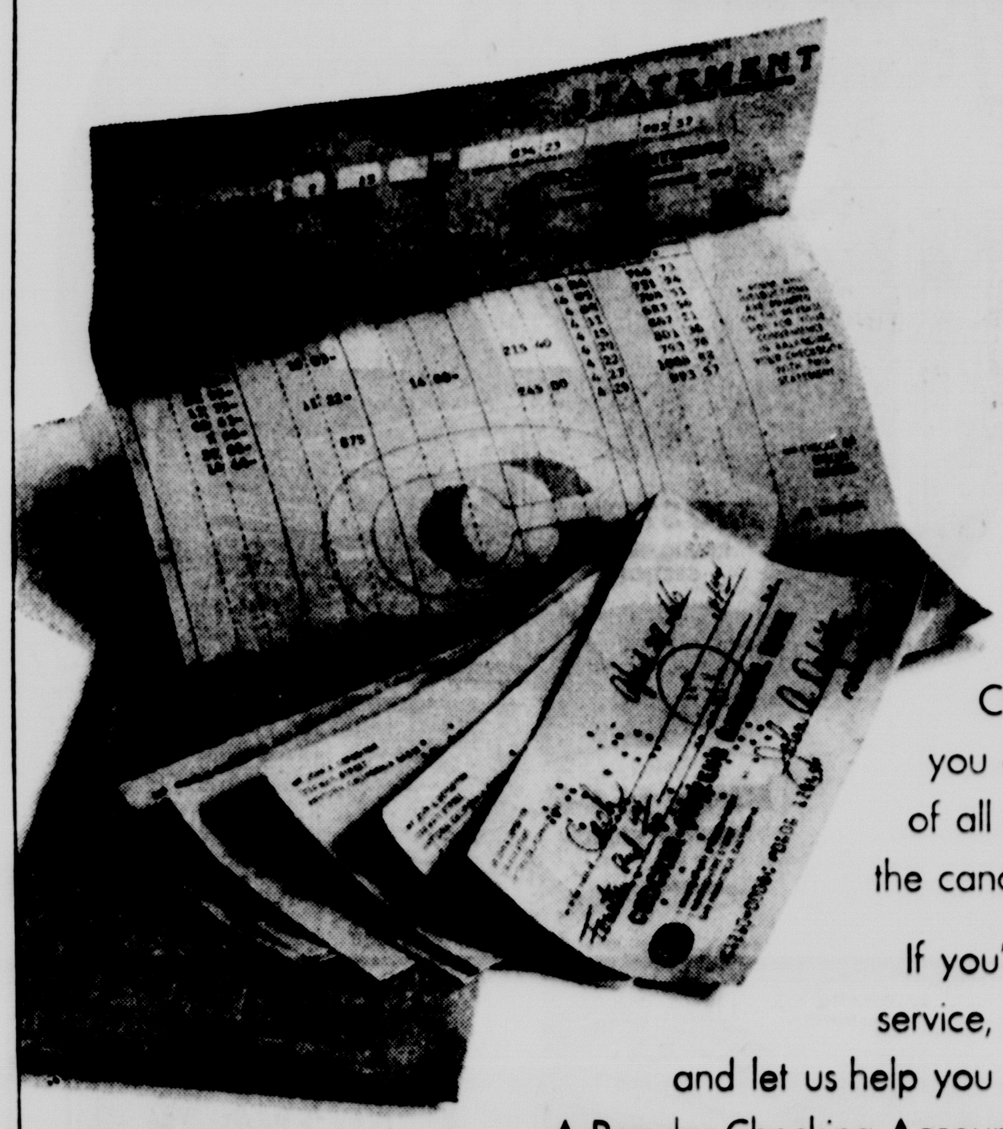
Where'd it all go?



That's an end-of-the-month question a lot of people have trouble answering.

But not if you have a Crocker-Citizens Checking Account. Because we regularly send you an accurate listing of all your deposits and of all your withdrawals. And we also send along the canceled checks that show you paid your bills.

If you're not getting this sort of budget-stretching service, walk into your local Crocker-Citizens office and let us help you open a Checking Account.

A Regular Checking Account can cost little or nothing at all, depending upon the size of the account and the number of checks you write. A Special Checking Account is the most thrifty if you write only a few checks each month. And you can open either kind with any amount and keep any amount on deposit.

Of course, with either account, you'll get regular statements and your canceled checks. In one neat package, you'll find out where the money goes.

Couple Nabbed On Pre-Dawn Coin Thefts

A string of early morning vending machine burglaries along Fourth Street in San Rafael led to the arrest in San Anselmo of a married couple from Castro Valley at 3 a.m. today.

Patrolman Vincent Sloane said he saw their car parked by a soft drink machine in the station just after San Rafael police broadcast a description of the auto, saying they thought it involved in a vending machine burglary at the Fourth and H Street Chevron Station in San Rafael minutes earlier.

Sloane said he pulled into the station with his patrol car's lights out and saw Doyle tinkering at the machine. He and Reserve Officer David Oliva arrested the couple when Doyle returned to the car.

Sloane said that in the car they found $29.25 in quarters and dimes and various tools which could be used for jimmying vending machines.

The couple told the officers they were looking for an all night, coin-operated laundry to wash some clothes.

San Rafael police later reported vending machine burglaries at the Texaco Station at Fourth and Irwin streets, the Tidewater Oil Station at Fourth and G streets, and the Chevron Station at Fourth and H streets.

San Anselmo police booked the Doyles into County Jail on a misdemeanor charge of petty theft and a felony charge of conspiracy.

Stockton Pair Die In Wreck

MANTECA (AP) — Two elderly Stockton residents were killed yesterday when their car blew a tire and overturned several times near Manteca.

The accident, on U.S. 99, killed Thomas E. Robbins, 79, and Mrs. Agenes K. Stuart, 71.

Mrs. Lorine Hensel, 41, of Stockton was driving them home from Los Banos, where they had been under medical treatment.

Mrs. Hensel is in a Stockton hospital in fair condition.

Stinson Fire Board Talks About Budget

Two Stinson Beach Fire District commissioners last night discussed the proposed fiscal 1967 budget but took no action. Commissioner Thomas Tawns was absent.

The commission will discuss the budget again prior to May 15 to adopt a preliminary figure, reported Mrs. Harriet M. Greene, assistant secretary.

FOR FAMILY MAN

Pay Of $1.35 An Hour Labeled Unrealistic

It's unrealistic to ask a young man with a family to support to work for $1.35 an hour, a county employment counsellor said today on Radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

Discussing job opportunities for minority racial groups, four speakers talked of the recent offer of Job Corps work at the Tiburon station of the U. S. Bureau of Mines for 30 high school dropouts from Marin City.

Marjorie Ward, minority employment counsellor for the county, said that many of the dropouts are 19 and 20 years old, and have families.

However, other youths, around 17, are willing and eager to take the work, said Lester Bailey, member of the Marin Human Rights Commission's employment task force. "It is work, and work experience for some men who have never held a job in their lives," he declared.

The speakers, who included Arthur L. Brown, member of the countywide War on Poverty advisory committee, and Byron W. Leydecker, chairman of the county board of supervisors, discounted a listener's suggestion that welfare payments should be suspended for Marin City unemployed who turned down jobs.

Terming such pay "slave labor," Brown said, "a person has a right to choose the type of endeavor he wishes."

"The $1.35 isn't the issue," he said. "The 26 weeks work with nothing beyond is."

Leydecker insisted that Marin must impose "reverse discrimination" if there is to be any progress in minority employment in the county.

Reporting on a recent meeting between the county and contractors and unions on the new Hall of Justice building, Leydecker noted the problem minority races have in entering skilled trades. Little progress was made at the meeting, he said, charging some unions "have woven a protective cocoon around themselves so it's virtually impossible for a white man, let alone a Negro, to penetrate."

Brightest spot in the current minority employment picture is a "one-to-one plan," reported Mrs. Ward. This is a new scheme with several Marin employers promising to take a minority youth as a protege, assist in his search for employment, and continue to observe his progress.

Bailey observed that there are considerable federal funds available for the county, to be used on apprenticeship and on-the-job training programs. "Virtually million of dollars are available. The problem is getting employers to accept positive programs. In Marin we've met a solid wall of resistance," he declared.

"Marin is in deep trouble," said Bailey.

Brown reported on a new Urban League program, with 50 jobs allocated for Marin City on a training program.

"People must get away from the idea they have to think and feel for Marin City. The young men in Marin City say there is no time for talk. This is the time for performance, action," he declared.

Gas Stations In San Marin Are Opposed

The San Marin Homeowners Assn. last night voted to oppose service stations on three corners of one intersection in San Marin.

Harker Development Co. has requested permits for the stations at San Marin and San Andreas drives. The Novato Planning commission has scheduled a public hearing on the request for May 9.

Joseph Bonomolo, newly appointed director of the association and unsuccessful candidate for Novato City Council, spoke against the permit. He owns a service station at the Novato Fair Shopping Center.

Edward W. Adams, director of parks and recreation for Novato, showed drawings of plans for two parks in San Marin.

An 11-acre park donated to the city by Sunset International Petroleum Corp. runs along Novato Creek. This will be developed with picnic areas, a riding trail, volley ball courts, horse shoe pits and a parking area, Adams said.

The proposed 25-acre park beside the junior high school site off San Marin Drive would be a general park, complete with picnic areas, a baseball diamond, play areas, etc., Adams reported.

He asked a favorable vote for the proposed county park bond issue on June 7 to help assure the second park for San Marin.

Boys In Open Sunroof Hurt

Twin three-year-old Kentfield boys were injured, one seriously, when they were standing up through the sunroof of the family car as their mother drove it into their garage at 12:40 p.m. yesterday.

Philip Moore was reported in good condition today in Marin General Hospital with a broken jaw and facial cuts. His brother, David, was treated for facial cuts.

Their mother, Mrs. Mary E. Moore, 38, of 20 Bridge Road, told the California Highway Patrol the boys stood up in the middle seat of the family bus as she drove it into the garage.

Water Board Asks Salmon Haul Study

General Mgr. William R. Seeger was asked by the Marin Municipal Water District Board yesterday to look into an agreement with the state to pay for the cost of hauling salmon to and from Nicasio and Hallack creek spawning waters.

Board Member R. G. Anderson said the district pays $510 a month for an assistant warden and over $100 a month in car and boat mileage. He said that since only 50 to 60 salmon a year are transported, it seemed expensive.

Seeger said the agreement to trap the fish and carry them by truck to their spawning waters in Hallack and Nicasio creeks and back again to streams below Nicasio dam, was made when the dam was built in 1961.

The Marin Municipal Water District Board also:

1. Awarded contracts of $133,826 to General American Transportation Co. of San Francisco for construction of a 5-million gallon Mill Valley steel water tank; $38,044 to Spence and Sullivan of Oakland for painting new tanks at Strawberry, Hamilton Avenue, Mesa Vista and Fawn Drive, and $5,226 to Sabraw Brothers of San Rafael for exterior painting of tanks at Los Ranchitos, Terra Linda and Marinwood.

2. Accepted bids of $91,955 from Rockwell Co. of San Francisco for annual supply of 2,000 water meters, about $35,000 from the Water Works Co. of Oakland for 2,000 pipe fittings, and $2,497 from Pacific Pipe Co. of San Francisco for 410 flanges.

3. Accepted a bid from Glens Falls Insurance Co. for a district liability insurance package which guarantees three-year coverage for $37,599 a year.

4. Called for bids for a two-ton electrically operated fork lift truck for the district warehouse and on relocating a storage building in the San Rafael yard.

Private Federal Finance Granted

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Acting under intense White House pressure, the Senate Banking Committee today gave swift approval to President Johnson's deficit-cutting plan to finance federal securities with private funds.

With a party-line 9-4 vote, the committee approved a proposal permitting the government to pool federal mortgages and sell participation shares to private investors.

The President's budget deficit for fiscal 1967 would be $6.5 billion unless Congress approves the measure. Taking the pooling plan into consideration, the administration now estimates a deficit of $1.8 billion fort he 12 month period ending June 30, 1967.

Parks 'Sorely Needed' Behr Tells Councilmen

Supervisor Peter H. Behr told the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen last night that passage of the county's proposed $4.3 million park bond issue would "provide sorely needed local parks."

Marin's 11 cities have about 119,000 residents and about 275 acres of park land, Behr said.

If the bond issue is passed, the cities will receive $2 million to acquire and develop park and recreation facilities. The county would be alloted $2 million to purchase regional park and and finance projects such as Bolinas Lagoon, Behr said.

Five districts having 16,000 people and oly 25 acres of parks would be alloted $300,000, he said.

Behr said he was not seeking an endorsement or recommendation from the council last night, but presenting information about the bond issue.

Passage of the bonds would add $3.11 a year in property taxes to the owner of a home with a market value of $30,000, he said.

Asked what the opposition to the bond issue is doing, Behr replied, "the opposition is cloudy." The main opposition, he said, "comes from people who come out and vote 'no' by habit."

Opposition arises during the week or 10 days before the election when people have second thoughts, he said.

Without the support of the cities, the outlook for passage of the bond issue would be dim, Behr noted.

Farm Worker Aid For Education

SACRAMENTO (AP)—School districts with large numbers of seasonal agricultural workers would receive state funds for additional teachers under legislation before Assemblymen today.

A bill by Sen. Fre S. Farr, D-Carmel, passed by the Senate yesterday, would appropriate up to $500,000 to help educate the youngsters of seasonal farm workers.

Farr said some 6,000 to 8,000 young people would benefit and that the Finance Department estimates that $350,000 of the support money would be repaid to the state's General Fund.

Engine Control Sale

An automatic engine control will be sold in a bid sale on May 24 by the defense surplus sales office at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Supreme Court Hits Discount GM Sale Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decided today General Motors Corp. violated antitrust law by trying to ban sale of Chevrolets through discount houses in the Los Angeles area.

Justice Department counsel contended such sales would increase competition at the retail level and thus benefit consumers.

GM attorneys argued the auto giant had to have a dependable dealer organization and said discount houses are not needed to create price competition.

Justice Abe Fortas delivered the unanimous decision.

Fortas said the high tribunal found in today's case "a classic conspiracy in the restraint of trade."

His opinion said there was "joint, collaborative action by dealers, the defendant associations and General Motors to eliminate a class of competitors by terminating business dealings between them and the minority of Chevrolet dealers and to deprive franchise dealers of their freedom to deal through discounters if they so choose."

Federal Man Says Fund Requests Lag

Cities in Marin "have not been at the head of the parade" in applying for federal urban renewal and housing assistance, a federal representative told the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen last night.

Jack Schonborn, deputy regional administrator in the San Francisco area for the Department of Housing and Urban Development, outlined the federal programs before about 55 persons at Nero's Restaurant in Ignacio.

Schonborn said he could understand why Marin cities "have not been rushing"to make use of some federal programs.

"Marin County is in transition, and many people like it the way it is," he said. It is a struggle to preserve the character and beauty of the county and to provide modern urban advantages at the same time, Schonborn noted.

The problem, he said, is "how to meet the force of change," and still protect the good features of the county.

Schonborn said the federal programs are not paternalism, but part of "creative federalism" to provide a better physical and social environment.

Councilmen expressed particular interest in two phases of federal grants during the question session: those for open space and urban beautification.

Schonborn said open space grants are for purchase of land and the urban beautification grants are for improvements.

San Rafael City Councilman Harry A. Barbier asked if the recent problems in Marin City might be "a good reason for cities not being interested in public housing."

Schonborn replied, "If the federal government had not worked with the Housing Authority, what would be happening in Marin City? Where would those people be?"

He said the program provided decent homes as "the basic point to improvement," and he didn't feel trouble in Marin City could be blamed on the housing program.

Schonborn said that such programs as waterfront property for Tiburon and a golf course for the city of Corte Madera might qualify for federal grants.

Marin County also could apply for open space grants if its proposed $4.3 million parks bond issue is successful and it sets out to acquire park land, he said.

The Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen also:

1. Unanimously appointed Novato Councilman Douglas M. Merrill to the county-city services committee, to succeed former Novato Mayor Robert D. Carrow.

2. Unanimously reappointed Sausalito Mayor Jan Paul Dyk as one of the city representatives on the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission.

3. Adjourned until May 25, when Ross will be host city.

Novato was the host city for last night's meeting.

In Colonial times, when a tavern customer asked for a "quick one" he was served a Calibogus—cold rum mixed with beer.

Milk Strike Expected As Talks Stalemate

OAKLAND (UPI)—A strike of 4,000 milk drivers and dairy workers from Salinas to Marin County appeared more likely today because of a stalemate in negotiations for a new labor contract.

The contract between the Northern California Dairy Industry Labor Relations Association and Teamsters Local 302 expired April 1. Secretary - treasurer Alber Brown of the local said nearly 24 meetings had been held without success and that no further meetings scheduled.

The workers have strike sanction from Teamsters Joint Council 7 and the Western Conference of Teamsters.

"Something is bound to happen, unless there is a break in the situation," Brown said today.

The local was meeting today with one independent dairy firm and Brown said he was "Hopeful" that terms for a new contract could be worked out.

"Other independents then might fall in line," Brown said, "and this might set a pattern for settlement in the entire industry. We are very hopeful."

The negotations involve drivers and dairy workers from Salinas to Marin County and include those in the East Bay and San Francisco.

Dairy workers in Marin today said they didn't believe there would be a strike—"it would be too serious. There just wouldn't be any milk in the county."

A retail route supervisor for a major dairy said all Marin dairies are union, which would entail a blanket strike by workers. Another major dairy manager said: he was convinced there wouldn't be a strike.

Dixie Board Given Report On Unification Impact

The Dixie School District Board last night received a four-page fact sheet on details of the approaching election on whether to unify the district with the San Rafael School District, but board members declined to take a stand on the issue.

The matter will be on the ballot in the June 7 primary.

Prepared by a board-appointed study group, the report spells out what the impact on the Dixie District will be if the unification is or is not approved.

Trustees told Supt. Dennie B. Willis to work with the Marinwood and Terra Linda fire departments in trying to set up a system of direct telephone lines to district schools within those departments' districts.

The Dixie School District Board Also:

1. Hired these nine teachers: Sharon D. Johnston to teach primary grades at $5,800 yearly; John Dineen, to be an intern at Dixie School at $5,200; Mrs. Ada G. Gray, first grade, $7,700; Mrs. Marianne D'Amico Gray, intern, $5,200; Mrs. Jean H. Carroll, intern, $5,200; Mrs. Marilyn Larkin, to teach art at Miller Creek School, $5,900; David L. Tofanelli, intern, $5,200; Curtis J. Kalstadn to teach at Vallecito School, $8,150; Mary P. Riley, $5,900.

2. Accepted resignations of Janet Seaman, fourth grade teacher at Santa Margarita School; Joan Wright, homemaking at Vallecito School; and James Kennedy, seventh grade at Miller Creek School.

3. Granted leaves to Mrs. Gay Lazansky, kindergarten teacher at Silveira School; Mrs. Barbara Kane, first grade at Silveira School; Douglas Perrin, seventh grade at Vallecito School; Mrs. June MacKenzie, fifth grade at Lucas Valley School, and Mrs. Emily Weinger, first and second grades at Dixie School.

4. Accepted these gifts: Seven fruitless mulberry trees, worth $70, planted by pupils of Bernard Hoffman School; 10 trees and a sprinkler, worth a total of $500, from the Bernard Hoffman School Teacher-Parent Group, and a new microphone for the public address system at Bernard Hoffman School, worth $65, from the same group.

5. Told Willis to obtain quotations on two portable classrooms, one each for Miller Creek and Mary Silveira schools.

6. Amended regulations so intern teachers will be moved to the second step of the salary scale on their first year after they finish internship.

7. Set a special meeting at 8 p.m. next Wednesday to discuss the administrative salary schedule for fiscal 1967.

The meeting ended at 1 a.m. today.

Four Injured In Accident On Highway

Four men were injured in two successive accidents last night, involving three cars, on Highway 101 south of Hamilton Air Force Base.

Treated for cuts and bruises at Novato General Hospital were: Ronald M. Garcia, 31, of 800 Tamalpais Avenue, Novato, driver of one car; William L. Edmonson, 55, of Petaluma, driver of another car, who was transferred to Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco, and Edmondson,s passenger, Harold Owen, 66, of 2036 Mill Road, Novato, and Howard Slade, 49, of 596 Davidson Street, Novato, who was transferred to Southern Pacific Hospital, San Francisco.

Highway Patrol Officer M. G. William, reported Garcia was driving north at 7:40 p.m. when his car hit the rear of a car driven by Almiva Jayne Garrett, 46, of 101 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael. Garcia's car then shot across the highway, through a dividing fence and hit Edmonson's car before stopping on a west side embankment, Williams reported.

Bigelow said he expects the bureau's board of directors to endorse the committee's action when the board meets May 17.

Scatter Plan On Low-Rent Considered

Members of the Citizens Advisory Committee for Development of Marin County last night discussed possibility of a program to put scattered low-rent housing units throughout the county.

They authorized member Ursula Gealey to appear before the Marin County Housing Authority Tuesday to urge that it look into a Federal program in which the government pays part of the rent for persons with low income. Members said this might be a helpful addition to present low-rent housing, which is confined to Marin City and the Hilarita Project in Tiburon.

This was the last session in which the committee had Public Works Director Donald R. Frost and his secretary, Evelyn Partridge, as staff members. The job will be taken over by County Planning Director Paul F. Zucker starting with the May 18 meeting.

Drake Report Shows Teachers Teach In Subject Of Majors

"The traditional district program of articulation between the elementary schools and high schools of the Tamalpais Union High School District has been significantly reduced in the last few years. There are several reasons why this is the case.

"Perhaps the most important reason relates to the district study of unification. It is something of a paradox that, while one of the chief purposes of unification is to improve articulation, one of the chief results of the study of unification may be a temporary decline in articulation activities."

The foregoing is contained in and accreditation report prepared last year for the Western Assn. of Schools and Colleges by the staff of Sir Francis Drake High School.

As unification of the hodgepodge of elementary school districts that make up Tamalpais High School District is still being talked about a year later—but appears no nearer than it did last year—it seems likely the lack of articulation between elementary and high schools has increased rather than decreased.

All three high schools of the Tamalpais district were reaccredited last year. Drake had previously been accredited in 1960. A large part of the bulky 304-page report prepared for last year's visiting accreditation team consists of responses, largely repetitive, to a long series of recommendations by the earlier team. "Incidentally, one wonders how many hours of instruction are sacrificed to prepare these reports, which say the same things over and over.)

One recommendation from the list perhaps should be noted: "More flexibility of the schedule is needed."

The administration's response to this was that "a few years ago an attempt was made to devise a limited flexible schedule involving two subjects, U.S. history and physical education. After study, the plan was rejected because the disadvantages seemed greater than the advantages."

However, the music department staff reported: "We have no flexible scheduling. We wish we had."

the report shows.

All four business education teachers, both home economics teachers, all four industrial arts teachers, both music teachers, all four girls' physical education teachers had majored in those subjects. Four of the five boys' physical education teachers were "P.E." majors, with the fifth having a physical education minor. Of three art teachers, two had majored and one minored in art. Of eight science teachers, seven had majored and the other had minored in some branch of science.

Of the 12 social studies teachers, 11 had majored in social studies or history but the 12th had neither major nor minor in the field.

The case was not quite so good in mathematics and English. Of 11 math teachers, six had a major and one a minor in math, but four had neither. Of 18 English teachers, 15 had majors and one a minor in English, but two had neither.

The student questionnaire section of the Drake report was especially revealing, because virtually the entire student body participated — 1,627 students out of 1,660 enrolled.

Mostly, the student responses were highly flattering. However, in a section addressed only to a selected list of students, the question was asked whether they were "encouraged to formulate and express opinions on important school problems." The answer was "no." The reason, said the students, was that "no clear-cut line exists between student problems and administrative problems."

The students here seemed to put their finger on something Drake's faculty last year was made up principally of teachers who had majored in the fields in which they were teaching, the faculty had overlooked in its part of the report.

Majorities of seniors answering the questionnaire felt they had been adequately instructed in every field except manners and morals. Just over half — 50.8 per cent — felt instruction in that subject was inadequate.

Asked what they liked best about the school, the greatest percentage of seniors (17.6 per cent) said "teachers," and the next greatest (15.9 per cent) said "spirit." However, to the question what they would most like to have changed, 17.5 per cent said "lack of spirit."

What the greatest percentage wanted changed, though, were campus smoking regulations — 25.9 per cent objecting to them.

The report contained a revealing fact about the place of the high school in the community. "More than 75,000 persons have been involved in the use of Drake facilities during the 1963-64 year," the administration reported.

Empysema is a lung-deteriorating condition which some medical researchers say ranks next to cancer as a result of smoking.

Sixth Suspect Surrenders On Pot Count

Roy Morgan, 18, sixth suspect in an alleged pre-college dance "pot party" in Kent Woodlands, surrendered himself at county jail yesterday on a charge of possession of marijuana. Bail was set at $276.

Morgan, of House 130, Marin City; Deborah Elizabeth Bullock, 19, of 374 Marin Avenue, Tamalpais Valley; Jenny Astrid Veggeby, 18, of 2 Upper Hill Road, Mill Valley; and Jim Clearance Durbin, 20, of 27 Pacheco Street, and Michael Holloway, 19, of 16 Dutton Court, both Marin City, are jointly charged with the violation.

A 17-year-old girl was booked in county juvenile hall, also on the marijuana possession charge.

Sheriff's officers said the six had a small quantity of the weed while parked in a station wagon prior to a club dance at the College of Marin gymnasium Friday night.

All adults were scheduled for arraignment in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

About 80 per cent of babies with birth defects can benefit from early medical treatment, according to The National Foundation-March of Dimes.

Time Magazine Brings Residents

An article in Time Magazine last week on Marin City will add at least two new residents there.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Cleaver of Boston, both natives of England, wrote to Chairman Byron W. Leydecker of the Marin Board of Supervisors saying they want to live in Marin City while Dr. Cleaver is assigned to the San Francisco Medical Center.

The Cleavers say they are "interested in reverse integration."

Guests will include all the debs and their guests and Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Carroll W. McColpin and Col. and Mrs. Horace B. McWhirter.

Previous parties for the debutantes have been a get-acquainted tea given by the deb adviser, Mrs. McWhirter, and an informal luncheon given by Mrs. William Kelley.

SEVENTY GUESTS have been invited for cocktails by Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Supple before Saturday night's Tennis Ball at the Windjammer in Tiburon. A spacious new deck on their Belvedere home will be the setting for the large gathering before the Belvedere Tennis Club's annual fling.

The Spanish California theme will be carried out in decor and cuisine. The museum is housed in old St. Hilary's Church, and the building and adjacent two acres of land provide an historic and wildlife conservation area. The event marks the seventh anniversary of the founding of the historical society. Recognition will be given at the dinner to those who have made contributions to the Landmark Society's work.

Mrs. Clayton Claassen is dinner chairman; she will be assisted by her husband, Col. Claassen, Mrs. Elmo De Martini, co-chairman; and Mesdames James B. Walker, Guy M. EARLY MARRIAGE TRENDS

State Stepping In To Backstop Families, Churches, Agencies

One of a series on the symposium on teen-age marriage and divorce held by the Continuing Education in Medicine and Health Sciences, University of California Medical Center.

By BARBARA HOSMER

Californians are superior people who have superior problems, and who appear to lead the country in rate of family failures, if the legal statistics count, says law professor Robert E. Furlong, who has been studying the psycho-legal problems of teen marriage, divorce and family in California. Some 52 per cent of California's litigation is related to family matters, he says.

Thus the state is stepping in to backstop families, churches and agencies who deal with the matters of early marriage with both long term and short term proposals, he said.

"It's time we stopped issuing marriage licenses with the same indifference we issue dog licenses."

Furlong, of the University of Florida College of Law, has studied California's problems for several years, serving as special consultant on domestic relations Assembly Judiciary Committee of the state legislature.

HE SAID THAT studies of the U.S. family show that the whole life cycle is becoming quicker, and in California it is ever faster. The divorce rate is high and growing with resultant damage to children. He said the studies show that teen-agers who marry reflect greater emotional instability than those who postpone marriage. "A failing couple conditions the children toward divorce—when divorce is present in the family background the results spill over" and create less chance for successful marriages in subsequent generations.

The trend toward earlier physical development is resulting in more teen-age motherhood and an increase of infant mortality and handicapped children because the teen-age mother has not had basic health information. He said that often they don't see an obstetrician until far along and persist on a hotdog and soft drink diet injurious to mother and child.

The answer?—a strengthening of family life education in schools on a voluntary basis by each district, says Furlong.

Ideally the family and the church should be the family life educators, but often, he said, emotional ties or lack of communication with family members prevent its doing the whole job, and the churches just aren't attended heavily by people in the Western states. That leaves the schools as the "third line of defense" says Furlong, and thus the state has begun to enter the picture to assist.

FAMILY SERVICE agencies offer a variety of services in the area of marriage and family counseling, but few people use their pre-marital counseling services. The major portion of the agency time is spent in post-marital counseling, psychotherapy, child guidance and so forth, although speakers are available for schools and clubs, he pointed out.

The costs of family failure is very high financially to the state and agencies and, of course, high in human terms, he said.

As a result of its studies, the state Assembly Judiciary Committee recommended that marriage fees be raised from $2 to $5 and divorce filing fee raised $5 to partly finance a preventative program of family life education and partly finance a rehabilitation program of marital counseling within the framework of the conciliation court. The Assembly passed the bill incorporating this program but it was referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee . . . "We can but hope it will pass the Senate in 1967 and be signed into law," Furlong said.

As to short term solutions, Furlong said the Assembly Judiciary Committee recommended waiting periods for persons under 21 who wish to marry. "Testimony indicated that anything which slows down the all too often hasty and unconsidered plunge into matrimony would be a positive step," Furlong said, adding that most states do have a waiting period. But he pointed out that it might be circumvented in a neighboring state with marriage in such a city as Reno without as great a commitment as when friends, family and relatives all attend the ceremony in the couple's home community.

A bill establishing a 30 day waiting period for applicants under 21 was passed by the legislature but pocket vetoed by Governor Brown because he said that the pre-marital counseling that the waiting period would allow was not provided for in the bill . . . and it would do more harm than good.

FURLONG ALSO described two other solutions a state legislature can enact to aid teen-

EARLY MARRIAGE TREND

age as well as adult marital and divorce problems:

First, a long term idea — waiting periods to marry and to divorce which would be uniform throughout the United States. Furlong suggested this be a state initiated, federal constitutional amendment granting Congress jurisdiction to establish minimal waiting period preceding marriage and residence requirements before divorce.

Second as a solution Furlong advocated elimination of the adversary system of divorce —the current system in which one partner is pitted against the other in a legal battle.

He said the current divorce system intensifies hard feelings, pitting family members against each other and encouraging the acting out of their aggression toward one another, the law suggesting they "fight" one another until "one is judged as the 'good' one, the right one, and the other is by authority declared publicly to be the bad one, or the wrong one."

This procedure is not a healthy one, he said, and is unrealistic as it is practically a human impossibility for any human to be omnipotent to the extent of judging one person right and another wrong. Also it gives the court a restricted view of the marriage relationship and family situation, he pointed out, because inevitably both partners have contributed to the conflicts of the marriage.

Furlong also suggests that in current divorce procedure the attorneys often restrict contact between the couple seeking the divorce which may deter efforts of reconciliation and contribute to their frustraiton and anger.

As an alternative the attorney outlined a different technique for handling family problems:

"AS INDICATIVE of the new, behaviorally oriented approach to marital discord, the style of the case no longer ... needs to pit one partner against the other. Instead of John Jones versus Mary Jones, the action would be styled 'In the matter of John and Mary Jones' or 'In the matter of the Jones family.' It will also indicate that if a decree is granted, it will be granted not to one or the other but to both in regard to the Jones family."

Furlong suggested a cooling-off period during which it is mandatory to have contact with both parties to the conflict before a divorce complaint is actually filed. He suggested a three month period in which the marriage status would be evaluated, and reconciliation efforts, if indicated, could take place. This evaluation would be made by professional counselors who could furnish the court with a report of the character, family relations, past conduct, earning capacities and finances of each the couple.

And, he said, if reconciliation is not possible and the marriage is to be terminated, the counselors can help the persons to understand the emotional conflict, guilt and failure they have felt and recognize that even after their marriage ends there will be involvement with each other's lives, particularly if there are children and that their conduct should minimize harmful effects of the breakup on the youngsters.

He said that now, in the last half of the 1960's, the state legislature faces the challenge of improving the stability and quality of the family through legal programs and modifications such as he suggested.

"But family interests are not yet adequately represented in Sacramento," he said, although more support is gathering throughout the state.

Gold Medal Winner Gives Demonstration

By PATRICIA A. ZINN

Students at San Rafael High School were given an expert and lovely approach to the swimming season yesterday in the person of gold medal Olympic champion Lynn Burke.

The attractive 22-year-old blonde from Long Island demonstrated the four swim strokes used in competition — butterfly, back, breast and free style — and racing starts and turns.

Lynn, who learned to swim at the age of two, was in San Rafael on the last leg of swimming demonstrations in 18 cities throughout the United States.

Along with the demonstration the vivacious Lynn also helped the students correct any problems they had in the water sport.

One of the highlights of her appearance was her account of the strenuous training required under coach George Haines of Santa Clara and winning the gold medals at the Rome Olympics.

Lynn won her first swimming race at the age of four, and at 13, already the Metropolitan AAU champion, barely missed qualifying for the 1956 Olympic team. In 1959, she moved south to Saratoga and trained 4½ hours a day until she qualified for the 1960 Olympic team.

In telling of winning gold medals for the 100 meter back stroke and the 400 meter medley relay, Lynn was most excited about the parade along the streets of Rome and competing in the stadium before 120,000 people.

The gold medal winner concluded her demonstration by urging the students to keep up their swimming because it uses every muscle in the body and also brings enjoyment.

'Peeved' Comes To Conclusion Some Adults Aren't So Great

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teen-age questions to Youth Asked For It, care of Helen Help Us!, the Independent-Journal.

DEAR HELEN:

I was at a basketball game recently which was a disgrace to all adults. Toward the end of the game the other team was winning by 10 points and some men started chanting: "Game's all over!" I doubt that anything could have been more crushing, especially to the Seniors, since this was their last game. Kids wouldn't do that!

I have come to the conclusion that adults aren't so great. Some nerve they've got, telling teens how rotten they are all the time! But they have to keep up their image of being supreme, don't they?—PEEVED.

DEAR PEEVED:

"Don't judge all by a few" is the teen theme song. Aren't you guilty of the same thing? All adults aren't rude and crude, any more than all teens are j.d.'s. It only seems that way to observers because the do-righters seldom get noticed.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Girls often complain that when boys go out on dates with them, especially when we are taking them home, we don't show much affection. I finally asked the girl I like to go to the movies with me and she accepted. I am puzzled about how she expects me to act. I planned to kiss her good-night but I am afraid she would think this is too little. I don't want to lose out with her. What is the normal showing of affection between a teen-age girl and boy?

—CITGO KID.

DEAR CIT:

A good rule on almost everything is: "When in doubt—don't!" Your girl will like you better if you make her wait a while for that good-night kiss.

—H.

PERSONAL TO FRIEND OF A RAT-FINK": Don't expect honor from a partner in "crime." When the heat is on, he'll come clean about your dirty work, and then you'll both learn it's a lot easier to tell the truth.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I love my mother dearly, but she doesn't love dogs, and I do—I'm going to be a vet. Our own dog—okay. But there's a poor, big, bony, "scrawngy," sad-eyed, lop-tailed dog that upsets our garbage can. She throws old shoes and bricks at him. Fortunately she misses, but maybe some day she won't.

Please take sides with the poor animals, and me. They were made by the same kind Hand that made all living creatures and have as much right to live as any of us. How can I make my mother think so?

SAD ANIMAL LOVER.

DEAR SAD:

Honey, if your mother's aim is like most females she'll never connect with Rover—even if she really wanted to, which she doesn't.

I'll take your side on one condition: Hhat you trot out and clean up the garbage each time the sad-eyed mutt comes calling.

P.S.: Has your mother tried dog-repellent, weighting the lid down with a heavy rock, or complaining to the owner—who may be breaking a city ordinance whenever he lets his dog roam free? —H.

DEAR HELEN:

Do men fear clever women? I am 13 and I'm writing a book. Boys seem to avoid me, maybe because they fear I'll put them in my book. But how can I write about my thrilling experiences if boys won't act like they should?—NOVELIST.

DEAR NOVELIST:

The best writers picture life as it is, not as they dream it. Build your book around a 13-year-old boy who would rather go fishing than go with girls.

—H.

Sanitation District Upholds Job Contract

The San Rafael Sanitation District Board late yesterday upheld its award of a $12,675 contract to a Kentfield contractor which had been protested by the second low bidder.

Chairman Fred E. Jensen said the board acted on the opinion of the county counsel's office that award of the bid was legal. The board also was advised that it could be subject to a taxpayer's suit if it rejected the low bid, Jensen said.

The contract was awarded to Neil T. Burton last Thursday for construction of a chlorination station at the Loch Lomond pumping station and an air gap system at the main treatment plant.

Peters and Robinson of San Rafael, second low bidder, contended the job should not be awarded to Burton because he did not have a general engineering license when he bid. Burton obtained the license before the contract was awarded.

Peters and Robinson's protest was withdrawn at the close of yesterday's session, Jensen said.

New Theater In Unitarian Marin Church

Theater for Dialog, a new Marin Theater group, will give its first production Friday and Saturday at the Unitarian-Universalist Church of Marin, 240 Channing Way, San Rafael.

The group will present, "The Private Ear" and "The Public Eye," two plays by Peter Shaffer. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

After the performance there will be a general discussion of the plays, in keeping with the group's conviction that a dialogue between actors and director and the audience can open up channels of communication among people, and that the nature of man is discovered through relationships.

Fullbrights Asks China Friendship

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright says he hopes the United States will soon "moderate our hostility and offer to China the hand of friendship."

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, added that the American attitude "is prolonging the extremist phase of the Chinese revolution."

Any offer is almost certain to be rejected, Fulbright said in a lecture to the Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies, but "honest and repeated offers of friendship may weaken the Chinese image of a hostile America" and lead to moderation of the Communist giant.

A-Blast May Enhance Oil Company Supply

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — An underground atomic blast that experts estimate would boost an oil company's gas production by as much as four trillion cubic feet is being studied.

R. McLean Stewart, chairman and chief executive officer of Austral Oil Co., an independent producing company based at Houston, said the firm has spent a substantial sum on drawing up a proposal concerning such an experiment for possible submission to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Students 'City Officials' Get In For A Day

San Rafael High School has named nine seniors to be "city officials" for a day, along with Terra Linda High School students, on "Youth in Government Day" next Monday.

Students, who applied for city posts, were selected by a committee of seniors and members of the social science department faculty.

During "Youth in Government Day," sponsored by the San Rafael Kiwanis Club, the students will sit in at city hall jobs to learn how the city's business is conducted.

This year will be the first time that Terra Linda High School students will participate in the day's activities. Nine Terra Linda students were selected last month to fill two council posts, and the jobs of city manager, treasurer, police chief, fire chief, finance officer, public works director and superintendent of schools.

INSIGHT ON DISPLAY

"Insight Seven" by Sausalito artist Serge Trubach is part of a collection of 30 of his collages and paintings, called "Insights 1966," which will be on display throughout May, at the Artist's Cooperative, 2224 Union Street, San Francisco. Trubach said "Insight Seven" and the rest of the collection describe "the mystique of the inner mind, infinity of time and space, and the architectural enigma of the modern world, architecture in civilization interpreting the universe through geometric forms."

Berkeley, Puccini Operas Set By College Workshop

Two one-act operas will be presented tonight, tomorrow and Saturday in Olney Hall of College of Marin by the college's Opera Workshop, under the direction of Peggy Donovan. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

"A Dinner Engagement," a comic opera by the contemporary English composer Lennox Berkeley, will receive its western U.S. premiere.

On the same program is Puccini's "The Cloack," considered by many to be one of Puccini's best, but seldom performed. Musical direction for this work is by Larry Snyder, and stage direction by Arthur Conrad.

Sets for both operas were designed by James Stewart. Technical coordinator is Ed Schoon.

Twenty-five singers in the Opera Workshop will appear in the two productions. Both will be sung in English.

Junior Highs Win At Music Festival

The 30-member orchestra was directed by Robert Jacobson at the festival, held on Saturday.

Legislatuors Ask Sign Litter Cut

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Legislators running for public office have been asked by the Senate to keep their political signs away from scenic and rural roads.

The upper house yesterday adopted a resolution by Sen. Alvin C. Weingand, D-Santa Barbara, asking that such signs be restricted to business and commercial areas.

Weingand said such signs are a "disgraceful blight" on the countryside. The resolution moves to the Assembly.

Boessenecker Named Chairman Of Plan Group

Edward J. Boessenecker was seated Tuesday night as chairman of the Mill Valley Planning Commission. He succeeds Rodric L. Robinson, who was elected to the city council on April 12.

John K. Robinson was elected vice chairman, the post Boessenecker formerly held.

The commission approved a master plan for the 22-unit single family planned community proposed by Cochran-Hernandez on Edgewood Avenue, and set May 24 for public hearing on it.

May 24 was also set for hearing on official plan lines for Sycamore Avenue and to amend the subdivision ordinance to provide for dedication of parks and open areas in accordance with recent state law changes.

Lurie Claims Prosecution Lying In Charge On Wolden

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fiery financier and wealthy land owner Louis R. Lurie has testified that in at least one instance the prosecution's accusation against San Francisco Assessor Russell L. Wolden is a lie and the prosecution knows it.

Lurie, who is 77, was reprimanded six times yesterday by Judge Lewis Drucker of Los Angeles. The multimillionaire was parrying with chief assistant Dist. Atty. Francis W. Mayer, who is prosecuting the bribery-conspiracy case. Wolden is accused of taking bribes to reduce assessments.

Mayer asked defense witness Lurie if he gave Wolden a view apartment in a building at 2100 Pacific Ave., where Wolden lives. Lurie, who had owned the building, flashed back:

"It's a lie Fran Mayer is telling, and he knows it's a lie."

Lurie said he had never received tax assessment cuts from Wolden. "Every time I asked for something at the assessor's office, they raised my tax bill."

Mayer asked Lurie why the assessed valuation on Lurie's J. C. Penney building in dontown San Francisco had not been increased since 1960.

"What do you want?" Lurie shot back. "Raise taxes every year?"

Lurie said taxes on the building had risen from $60,000 a year when he bought it some 20 years ago to nearly $150,000 at present.

"That's the favors of Mr. Wolden, and I've complained to him many, many times about it," the witness said. Mayer objected to the testimony, but the objection was overruled.

In the midst of one exchange between Mayer and Lurie, the witness told the prosecutor: "You don't know what you're talking about."

"I'm quite sure at your age you understand plain English," Judge Drucker said in admonishing the witness.

"I also speak plain English," Lurie replied. "When he makes a mistake, I want to correct him."

Lurie and Wolden are old friends. Lurie owns the Mark Hopkins Hotel, built and owns a bank building in the financial district and holds various other properties in San Francisco.

Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, was another defense witness. But his testimony was cut short after Drucker ruled he was not an expert on assessments.

House Hits Job Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to broaden the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission's power to fight racial discrimination in private employment.

Under the bill approved 299 to 94 and sent to the Senate, the year-old commission could issue orders requiring employers and labor unions to halt discriminatory practices. Now the commission is limited to persuasion.

The legislation also would bring thousands more companies under the commission's jurisdiction by covering all those with eight or more employes. This extension would not take effect until July 2, 1967.

Houlihan Indictment To Be Asked Of Jury

OAKLAND (AP) — Alameda County Dist. Atty. J. Frank Coakley says he will ask the grand jury to indict former Oakland Mayor John C. Houlihan on a charge of grand theft.

The grand jury began its investigation yesterday of Houlihan's handling of the estate of the late Sarilla Whitlock. Coakley alleged that the former mayor used $100,000 from the estate while he was its conservator.

Coakley said federal officials can furnish $50,000 in U.S. savings bonds belonging to Mrs. Whitlock which were allegedly converted to cash by Houlihan. About $50,000 beside the bonds remains unaccounted.

Houlihan's attorney, Stanley Golde, said his client would not testify at the grand jury hearings. Coakley told this to the grand jury.

The district attorney said he has a strong case even without Houlihan's testimony. He said he outlined four ways to the grand jury that Houlihan could have diverted funds to his own use:

Checks were drawn on Mrs. Whitlock's account. The stubs of 16 checks totaling $20,000 were made out to Houlihan.

More than $10,000 was transferred from Mrs. Whitlock's savings account to Houlihan's own account in May 1961.

Funds from another savings account, Coakley said, were put into a conservator checking account. Coakley said Houlihan wrote checks to himself from the conservator account.

Finally, Coakley said Houlihan redeemed the federal bonds.

Among the 21 witnesses called to testify in the investigation were R. G. Retallick of the Federal Reserve Bank and James V. Conway, a handwriting expert for the post office.

Houlihan announced his resignation as mayor when attorney Thomas Ferro filed a suit Feb. 15 for the heirs of the estate asking for an audit. Houlihan said his resignation had nothing to do with the suit, but that he needed more time to devote to his law practive.

Among the heirs is Mrs. Lillian Searle of Novato.

Cause Unknown In Fire Death

William C. Bradley, assistant county coroner, said today that the cause of a fire which took the life of a 7-year-old girl in Lucas Valley March 22 is still undetermined.

Coroner Frank J. Keaton, Bradley, County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom, an insurance investigator and other concerned parties met with members of the Lucas Valley Homeowners Assn. for three hours last night to go over the evidence from the fire.

Some testimony indicated that the fire seemed to be concentrated in the front bedroom of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence K. Fong at 9 Mount Rainier Drive, Bradley said.

Rebecca Ellen Fong died when she ran back into that bedroom after once leaving the house.

Tehachapi (mountains and town in Kern County) is an Indian word first applied to the creek of that name. The root-meaning of the word is "to freeze," hence the underlying idea that the creek may have been frozen over at one time.

Fire Victim Collapses On Street

Calvin M. Garrison, whose Muir Beach home was destroyed by fire Tuesday, collapsed in downtown San Rafael and was taken to Marin General Hospital.

He was reported in fair condition today, but his daughter, Judy, said the cause of his collapse is unknown. She said her father, controller for a chain of furniture stores, has been on leave from business since last October on account of his health.

The 47-year-old controller, his daughter, her houseguest, Martha Pasley, and Jack C. Magruder, co-owner of the $55,000 home on Shoreline Highway, fled the house at 4:45 a.m. Tuesday as fire did damage estimated at $37,000.

The four had been staying at the Fountain Motel in Mill Valley since the fire, but Miss Garrison said she, Mrs. Pasley and Magruder will move to Edgewater Inn in Corte Madera to be nearer her father.

Garrison was stricken at about 1:20 p.m. yesterday outside 536 Irwin Street.

Injured Sergeant Off Critical List

S/Sgt. Arlem E. Russell, injured in an automobile accident last Saturday afternoon in Petaluma, has been taken off the critical list at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital.

Russell, 36, of 615 Ignacio Boulevard, Novato, was thrown through a window of his car when it collided broadside with another at Wilson Street and Washington Avenue, Petaluma, according to base officials.

'Beat Mass' Gets Mixed Reaction

By BENNET M. BOLTON

ROME (AP) — Three mop-haired youth combos banged out a "beat mass" in a Roman Catholic chapel last night. Listeners couldn't agree whether it was a howling success or a holy mess.

A crowd of 500, including scores of priests, jammed into the oratory of St. Philip Neri. They stomped their feet and bobbed their heads to the rhythm of the electric guitars, drums, organ and singers.

Another 1,000 outside beat on the door trying to get in. Police reinforcements had to squeeze into the crowded courtyard to keep order.

A group of Oratorian Fathers, whose religious order specializes in youth work, sponsored the program.

The 17 young musicians were lined up before a battery of microphones to perform a nine-part mass written by composer Marcello Giobini, with words adapted by an editor of the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano, the Rev. Carlo Gasbarri. There was no religious celebration of the mass.

The Rev. Sinaldo Sinaldi, a Dominican priest, opened the concert with this explanation:

"In a hard and merciless era like ours, a profane music can be useful in expressing religious sentiments — although I want to assure you that the promoters of this enterprise have absolutely no intention of putting light music into the church's official cult, that is, its worship."

The Rome newspaper Il Messaggero commented: "Never before has there ever been seen such a crowd, unleashing punches and kicks, assaulting a barred door, just to be able to assist at a mass."

In earlier days, Sunnyvale was called Murphy's Station for Martin Murphy Jr., who owned Rancho Pastoria de Borregas and on which Sunnyvale is located. At the turn of the century it was given its present descriptive name.

Pair Sentenced To Six Months

Timothy Shannon Culver and Allen E. Sheppard Jr., 19-year-old Marines charged with theft of a $15,000 sailboat, were given six-month terms in county jail and placed on five years probation today in Marin Superior Court.

Both pleaded guilty March 22.

Culver, 93 Marina Court, San Rafael, and Sheppard, of Wichita, Kan., took the 33-foot sailboat owned by Owens-Marin Yacht Sales Inc., San Rafael, from Lowrie Yacht Harbor on Jan. 31.

They sailed it to Santa Cruz, where it was abandoned and smashed against rocks.

Judge Harold J. Haley ordered the defendants to make restitution for the boat and for worthless checks passed during the same spree.

Bolinas-Stinson Majority Appointed On School Board

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Over the past six months, three of the five Bolinas-Stinson School District trustees have been replaced by appointees.

This gives but two elected board members and is a point which was complained about at Tuesday night's board meeting concerning the resignation of Supt.-Principal Peter M. Auer.

Betty Brown, in the audience, questioned legality of a board which has two elected trustees and three appointed trustees. Another citizen suggested the appointees resign and an election be held. Still others in the audience said it is the people's fault for not providing more candidates to serve on the board when openings come.

ELECTED TRUSTEES

Appointed trustees are Mrs. Ida Mendonca and Mrs. Roberta Shockey, both of Stinson Beach, and John Collingwood of Bolinas.

Mrs. Shockey was seated last Sept. 22, to replace Irving E. Levine, who moved away. Mrs. Mendonca was seated last October, taking the chair of Mrs. Jane Phillips, who also moved away. Collingwood was seated March 10 of this year, taking the place of Mrs. Mildred Haraldsen, who resigned.

Mrs. Shockey was appointed by the county board of education after Bolinas-Stinson trustees deadlocked in a 2-to-2 vote on whether to appoint her or Mrs. Patricia Vitelli of Bolinas. The other two appointees were named by the Bolinas-Stinson board.

CLOSED SESSION

Board Clerk Carpenter said today that trustees, when appointed, are first interviewed by the board in closed session, then dismissed from the meeting and the board votes. They are seated at the next meeting. Names of candidates are announced prior to voting date if requested by anyone, he said.

Asked if the county superintendent of schools office plays any part in appointing new trustees, Carpenter said, "no, not normally."

Asked why the county superintendent's office played a part in the resignation of Auer, Carpenter replied:

"If requested, that office will give us an evaluation of an administrator or a teacher. That is their function to districts in a small area (such as Bolinas-Stinson) where you don't have separate people to do that sort of thing.

"We did ask for their opinion (in Auer's case) and that was why Mr. (Kenneth W.) Lowry attended the second closed session regarding the resignation. The board requested him to attend." Lowry is administrative consultant in the county schools office—division of administrative services, research and finance.

A school district board has 60 days in which to appoint a replacement when a trustee resigns. After that, the Marin County Board of Education can select a replacement.

Carpenter said Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, was invited to attend the meeting of the board at 8:30 p.m. today but is unable to attend, and Lowry, also invited, is out of town. Another representative is being sought, said Carpenter.

The meeting was set Tuesday by the board in hope Auer could be present, several trustees saying they would not discuss details of the resignation without Auer's presence.

Auer will be there, according to Mrs. Robert Grey, one of the petitioners asking the board to reconsider Auer's resignation. "He is not coming to defend himself but simply so that the persons wishing to address the board can get straight answers which were not achieved Tuesday night," she said.

Questioned as to how easy it is to fill vacancies on the board when a trustee resigns, Carpenter said there are always one or two applicants "but that's about it." He said he feels strongly that a person should not run for election unless he expects to fill out his full term.

The next election in the district will be in April, 1967, when terms of Carpenter and Collingwood expire.

Senate Approves Subsidies On Rents By 46-45 Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — By a one-vote margin, the Senate has approved funds for President Johnson's program of rent subsidies for low-income families.

But the administration and its Senate leaders had to use all their resources to get the votes needed for yesterday's 46-45 victory authorizing $12 million in contract authority for the new program.

After that vote, the Senate passed, 72-12 a $2.8 billion supplemental money bill that included the rent subsidies funds.

Republicans led the floor fight against the new administration program, declaring that it was poorly prepared and could cost the federal government $6 billion over the next 40 years.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen cried that the subsidies are "sure to become noxious in American life."

Democrats contended that the new plan could do a better job of providing good homes for low-income families than the present low-rent public housing program.

The estimated subsidies of $40 a month for each family under the program would be less than the $58 which public housing now costs, they said.

Robert C. Weaver, secretary of housing and urban development, has estimated the $12 million will finance 20,000 units of new housing for rent-subsidized tenants in projects built by nonprofit organizations. None of the subsidies would go to private landlords.

The federal government would pay the difference between 25 per cent of a family's income and the rent needed to support the apartment project.

Only families now eligible for public housing — generally those with incomes below $5,760 a year — could qualify.

Voting to retain the money were 41 Democrats and 5 Republicans; opposed were 26 Democrats and 19 Republicans.

Raccoon Due Rabies Test

J. R. Jackson of 610 Wanda Lane, Tamalpais Valley, called firemen at about 8:55 p.m. yesterday after shooting what he described as a "wild, rabid raccoon" in his back yard.

Believing the animal to be rabid when it acted "very strangely" and kept coming toward him, Jackson told fireman Robert Davison, he shot it with a .22-caliber rifle. This didn't bother the raccoon.

So Jackson got his .30-.30 and "did it under," said Davison.

The animal was to be turned over to the Marin County Health Department for a rabies test.

Judge Halts Sale Set On Nob Hill

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Judge Joseph Karesh, ruling yesterday a city zoning law would be violated, prohibited White Front Stores Inc. from holding a sale in the Masonic Temple.

The judge, in Superior Court, granted a city-requested temporary injunction, stopping the first five days of the sale atop Nob Hill. He also set a hearing for Wednesday on whether to grant a permanent injunction, which would eliminate the last five days.

DEATH FOR RODENTS — Albert La Rose, rodent control man in the Marin County agricultural commissioner's office, plants a "lollipop" of waxed bait—paraffin permeated with poisoned grain—in new rodent control method which Agricultural Commissioner Richard T. Straw claims is proving unusually effective.

High School Boys Get Employment From Marin Cities

Summer Jobs Last From Two To Eight Weeks; Most Pay $1.25

By ALAN P. CUNNINGHAM

About 60 high school boys in Marin will get from two to eight weeks this summer working in city parks or on road crews.

Most of them will be in Mill Valley, Sausalito and San Rafael, although a few other high school youths may hold jobs in Novato and San Anselmo programs which are mainly for college students.

The Mill Valley program will put 14 boys to work at $1.25 per hour. They will be split into two crews, and will work four hours daily.

The program will put fewer teen-agers to work than last year but will permit them to work longer. The eight-week jobs last year were split into four periods of two weeks apiece, which proved less than ideal both for the youths and the city.

Sausalito, according to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown, will hire two boys for eight weeks each, so that the city will have one working at all times throughout the summer.

Brown said no one has decided yet what the pay will be. It was $1.25 last year, but officials of the state Department of Employment say the city may have to pay $1.50 to get applicants, Brown said.

The city has hired youths for about four years, some of whom have been Negroes. The workers put in a full-time week cleaning playgrounds, picking up litter along roads or painting guard rails.

Brown said his city, too, tried passing around the jobs by replacing the teen-age workers every four weeks. This worked for one summer, he said, but the next year there were not enough boys to go around, so the system was abandoned.

"It has been strangely difficult to find boys who want to work," he said, but the program has worked well on the whole.

San Rafael will use high school boys in two different programs, one under the parks and recreation department and the other under public works.

The parks program will employ 32 boys, each working two weeks, with eight boys working at any one time. They will be paid $1.50 per hour for an eight hour day.

The boys, who must be San Rafael residents, are recruited by the state Department of Employment.

Recreation Director Joseph D. Rodota said the program started last year with the youths working a four-hour day, which failed to work out.

Another eight to 10 youngsters will be hired, as they have been for more than 10 summers, to pick weeds throughout San Rafael.

Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles said his department will pay the youths $1.50 an hour for pulling weeds along public streets, on city property — or on vacant lots whose owners have ignored official requests to clean them up. Property owners are billed for this work.

Split into two crews, the high school boys are generally kept busy from six to eight weeks. Rawles said he usually hires San Rafael residents, but sometimes gets them from San Anselmo or other nearby communities. They come to him through the Department of Employment, the schools—including Marin Catholic High School or by word of mouth from boys who have worked for the city in previous summers.

While making no conscious effort to run a "poverty program," Rawles said he favors youths who appear to need the money.

In San Anselmo, the city's recreation program keeps a staff of young people working all year around.

The 20 jobs for the summer program have already been filled, said Recreation Director Andrew Snyder, mostly by college students but with a few high school youths sprinkled in. Hourly pay ranges from $1.50 to $2, based on experience, and most of the workers put in a 25-hour week.

Preference is given to San Anselmo residents, but others are hired also, and many stay on for several years.

Novato, too, has an active recreation program which attracts many of the same people over and over, but all are college students. The city council, however, will be asked next month to hire six 16-year-olds as locker room attendants at the city pool.

These, according to Recreation Director Edward W. Adams, would probably be paid $1.35 per hour.

Recovered Tuberculosis Victim Named To Head Marin TB Group

Mrs. L. W. Waldon, San Anselmo real estate broker who is a recovered victim of tuberculosis, was elected last night as president of the Marin Tuberculosis and Health Assn.

Mrs. Waldon took over the gavel from Dr. Joseph J. Alderson of Sleepy Hollow at the annual election meeting at Sabella's Restaurant in Alto.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael), speaker at the dinner meeting, declared the new "CalMed" medical aid law "aims at elimination of the double standard of medical care" based on ability to pay.

But, he warned, citizens must guard against "a new disease of bureaucracy — hardening of the categories."

The county board of supervisors is in a better position to assess the economic implications of a medical aid program here than is the state director of finance in Sacramento, the senator declared.

McCarthy said the state bill was necessary to assure Californians proper implementation of the Medicare program. The legislature, he noted, put administration in the hands of medical and hospital associations experienced with such work, "and we want to keep it that way."

Declaring new legislation "has brought a minor revolution in the medical profession," McCarthy said it also will serve to inflate medical costs, which he said rose 43 per cent from 1958 to 1963, the most rapid increase in cost of any personal expense.

Elected as officers, besides Mrs. Waldon, were E. Warren McGuire of Kentfield, vice president; Mrs. Daniel Deedy of Ross, secretary, and William D. Fusselman of San Anselmo, re-elected treasurer.

Newly elected to two-year terms as directors were Mrs. Walter G. McEvoy of Corte Madera, Shirley Conklin of Fairfax, Dr. Lennart E. Suther of San Rafael, Irving Links of Novato, Mrs. Harry Willis of Kentfield, Dr. Chad H. Calland of Marinwood, and William T. Wilson of San Rafael.

Re-elected for their second two-year terms were Mrs. Charles Banfield of Fairfax and Edward W. Bullard Jr. of Ross. Named to third two-year terms were Mrs. Herbert L. Baum of Larkspur, Bert C. Corona of San Rafael, Mrs. Malvern S. Dorinson of Ross, Dr. Edward McCrum of Kentfield, McGuire, and Mrs. Deedy.

Oboist, 12, Captures Music Society Award

Rhodesia Final Break Delayed

LONDON (UPI) —Britain and the breakaway Rhodesian colony decided today to hold off on any final and complete diplomatic break while they are holding talks to see if negotiations on Rhodesian independence is possible.

Salisbury reports said the Rhodesian government, in a gesture of good will, had put a hold on its last week demand the British high commission there close down by mid-may. A spokesman said orders to the British staff to quit were being held in abeyance.

MARIN LOLLIPOPS

Rat Bait Experiment Uses Paraffin Stick

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Marin County is producing lollipops for rats and the rats love them. In fact it just kills them.

That is the whole idea of the project, which started on an experimental basis last year.

Albert La Rose of Alto, rodent control man in the county agricultural commissioner's office, started the experiment, seeking a better way to get rid of the big rodents.

The lollipops are actually big chunks of paraffin, permeated with poisoned grain. In the past, just the grain was spread in a rat-infested area, but this was not nearly so effective or efficient as the new method.

County Agriculutral Commissioner Richard T. Straw said the wax serves to prevent the grain from mildewing and prevents the poison, Diphacin, from decomposing. It also last longer because there is no wastage, and can even be put in tidal areas where it is likely to be under water part of the time.

The waxed bait discourages dogs, cats and birds from eating the poisoned grain.

Didhasin couses internal bleeding, and rats must eat it for about five days consecutively before they will die, Straw explained.

La Rose, sometime working with a helper, melts wax and pours it into empty quart and half gallon milk cartons with the poison grain. A pointed stake is stuck in the center while the wax is still hot. This allows fixing the bait in the ground or, with the use of a hammer and nail, putting it on a tree.

Straw said the waxed bait has eliminated complaints on rats. The bait last long enough to take care of secondary infestations as well as the initial crop of rats.

"We will try to avoid putting the bait near homes," La Rose said. "We try to go to the source."

This means that La Rose hikes a good many creek beds, planting the lollipops. He also leaves the bait in wharves and rocky shorelines.

After putting out the bait, he checks back about a week later. If the bait has not been much eaten, he will put it in a new location. If the bait has been used up, he will often plant a new lollipop.

Waxing bait is not a new poisoning method in California, but Straw does not believe that it has been done elsewhere on such a volume basis as in Marin.

The bait also works well on Douglas ground squirrels, Straw said.

His office and the county fire departments still distribute small sacks of Pival bait, soaked on grain, for homeowners with a rodent problem. Straw soon would like to give out waxed bait and eliminate the grain entirely, because the waxed bait has proved so much more effective.

Boy Hit By Car in Marin City

A five-year-old Marin City boy suffered cuts and bruises when he was struck by a car as he was crossing Drake Avenue near Cole Drive in Marin City at 6:40 p.m. yesterday.

Ronald Duvall, son of Hill Duvall of 257 Drake Avenue, was treated for scalp and arm cuts at Marin General Hospital.

Ronald was hit when he ran out from between parked cars and into the path of a car driven by Robert Stover, 33, of 89 Cole Drive, Marin City, Officer F. G. Webb of the California Highway Patrol reported.

Tiburon City Aid Sought On Fire Line

The Tiburon Fire District Board last night appointed a committee to see if the district can get city financial help to build a $77,000 water main down Tiburon Boulevard.

James P. Jenkins, secretary, said the committee would seek allowances or grants from the city for the main, which would run from San Rafael Avenue to Main Street.

The board discussed with representatives of the Tiburon Property Owners Assn. ways of financing increased water service to the Paradise Drive and Mar West areas. If city help is not received, the main could be financed by a bond issue, a special assessment district, or raising the district tax rate, they suggested.

The board will meet again with the association within a month, Jenkins reported.

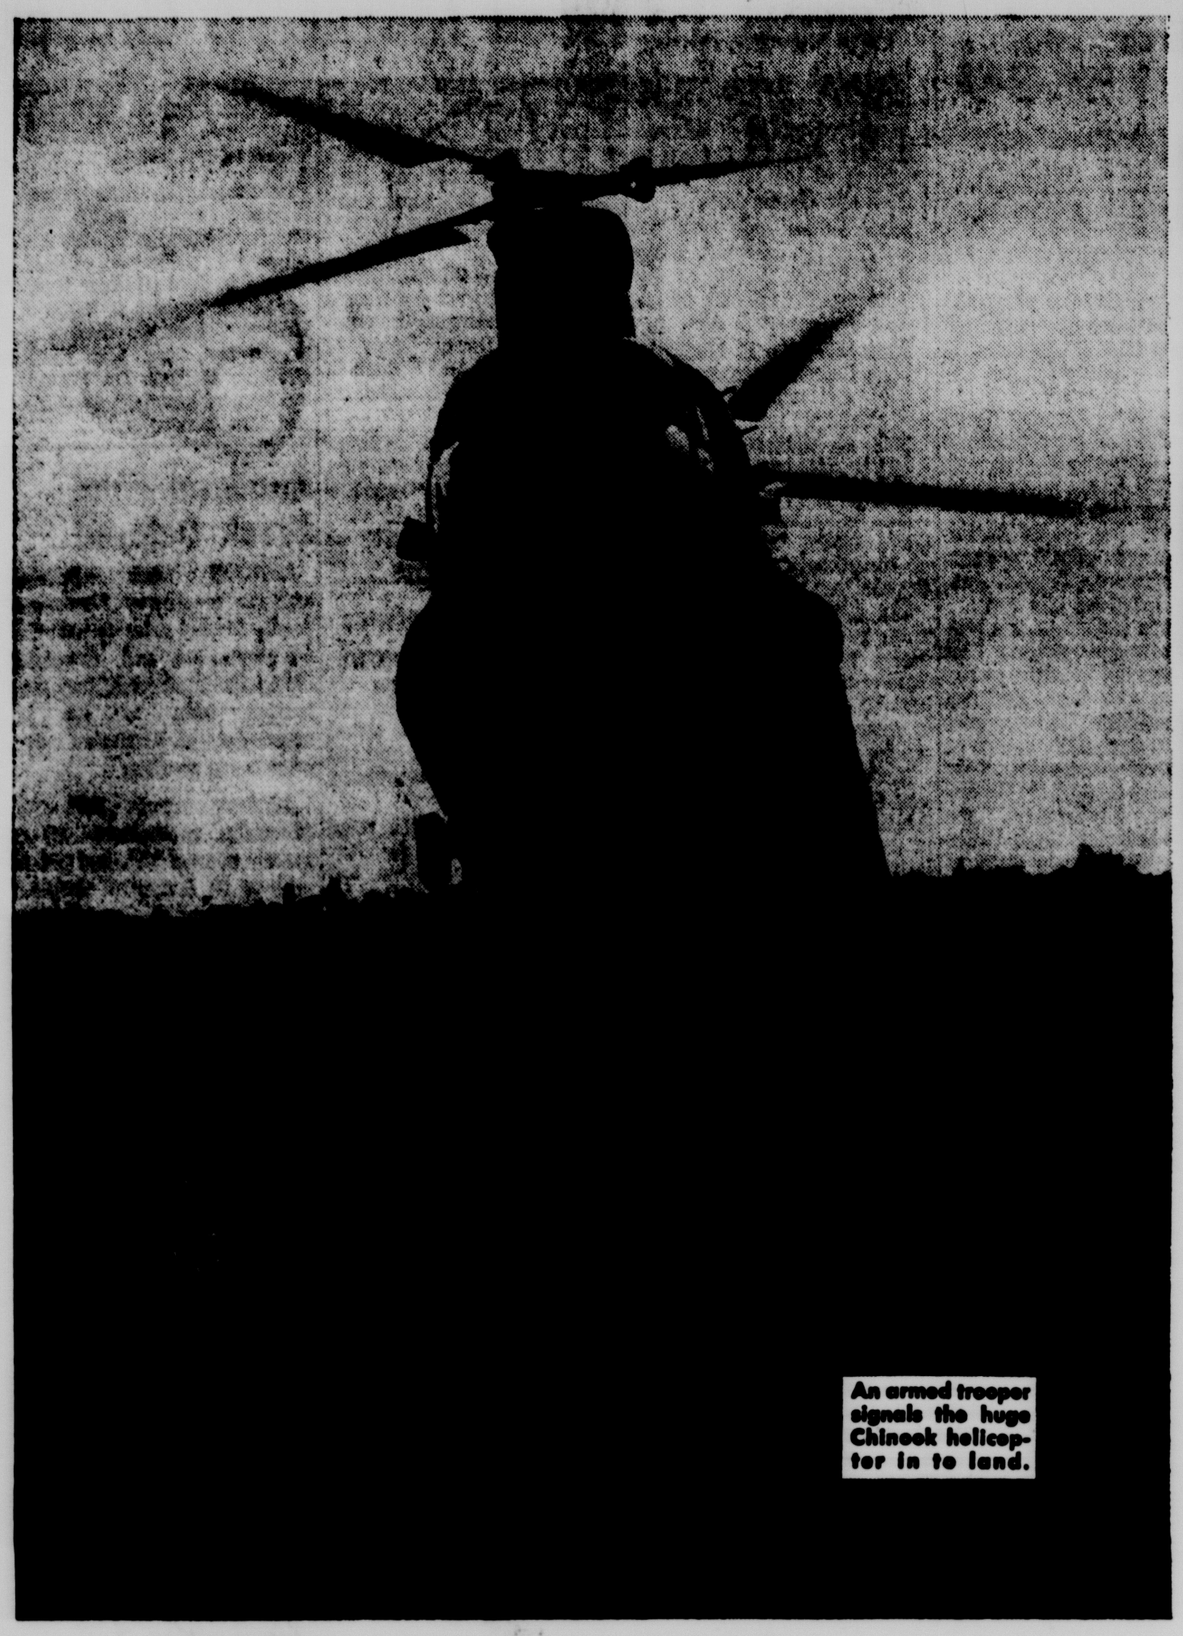
ONE VILLAGE AIR EXPRESS F.O.B.



An armed trooper signals the huge Chinook helicopter in to land.

Villagers pile their belongings in tall grass while waiting for the air lift to safety miles away.

Not long ago troopers of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division in South Viet Nam, moving through a jungle area near the Cambodian border on a search and clear operation, came upon a village whose people were totally unsympathetic to the Communists who dominated the area.

Many South Vietnamese in isolated areas of the country have been plagued by the Viet Cong. The Cong tax them, requisition their food supplies, brainwash their children, conscript their men into guerrilla bands and force the rest of the villagers to work and spy for them.

The Cong has used innocent villagers, including women and children, as shields during battle. At other times bewildered villagers have been caught in the crossfire of opposing forces and suffered casualties.

The people of this village understandably wanted to move quickly, while the Cong were helpless to prevent it. The troopers called in massive Chinook helicopters to ferry them to a safer area 15 miles south of the central highlands city of Pleiku.

The families piled their belongings in the tall grass and soon lines of villagers, from tots to elders, with rice, pets, livestock and all their moveable belongings, streamed to the waiting Chinooks.

The furnishings of their church — religious paintings, statues and a cross — were stacked in the grass until Americans in combat gear could carry them aboard.

The brave and adventurous clambered quickly into the choppers. The hesitant peeked in and then cautiously stepped aboard.

Soon the big helicopters reared off leaving the deserted village behind and settling to the earth again soon after to deposit the villagers in their new, safer and hopefully happier homes.

A youngster waits by his family's belongings.

Lugging a heavy suitcase, a young girl hurries to join the others.

Priest Asks Reason For Bremond Firing

Rev. John J. O'Connor, director of the Catholic Family Agency in Marin and a member of the Human Rights Commission, has told county supervisors he is "deeply disturbed" by the firing of Walter Bremond as director of Community Relations Services for the county.

Bremond was fired by the board April 21 but resigned two days later.

O'Connor declared in a letter to the board that the community had a right to know the reasons for the board's action.

O'Connor also declared his experience on the Human Rights Commission was "frustrating, discouraging and confusing," and questioned the wisdom of assigning Bremond as commission staff in addition to his other duties.

The priest urged supervisors to make careful selections in appointments to the recently reorganized commission, and said the commission could have accomplished much more with adequate staff.

He further told supervisors that he believes the commission should have been consulted in recent actions on Marin City, including establishment of a temporary recreation center, replacement of Deputy Sheriff Charles T. Prandi, and the firing of Bremond.

O'Connor closed by saying he is willing to serve in any way. "If appointed for any function, however, I want to be active and useful, not honorary, nor impeded by lack of your direction or interest nor lack of the proper tools to accomplish the job."

Democrats Again Choose Skornia Club Chairman

Thomas A. Skornia, Ross attorney, was re-elected last night as chairman of the Marin Council of Democratic Clubs. The group met in the San Rafael courthouse.

Other officers elected were Michael D. Healy of San Geronimo, vice chairman; Joie Hubbert of Sausalito, re-elected treasurer, and Jean Brezina of Mill Valley, secretary.

A three-man committee, composed of Skornia, Healy and Neil Abercrombie of Mill Valley, was appointed to drum up membership in the various Democratic clubs.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, who was in the courthouse on a grand jury matter, turned out to be an unscheduled speaker. Bales gave an impromptu campaign talk for about 10 minutes at the invitation of the council.

Court Appeals Review Asked

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A Los Angeles appellate judge has called for a review of the entire judicial appeals system.

"Appellate courts are more and more getting in disrepute every day," said Justice Walter J. Fourt of the District Court of Appeal in Los Angeles.

Fourt's testimony, hotly contested by senators and judges, came Wednesday before the Senate Governmental Efficiency Committee. The committee approved a bill to add another division to the Second District Court of Appeal in Los Angeles and to the First District in the San Francisco area.

Dedication Scheduled May 7 For Building

Dedication of Corte Madera's new Public Safety Substation east of Highway 101 will be at 2 p.m. May 7, rather than 2 p.m. Saturday as incorrectly reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Completion of the $25,000 substation on Parade Drive between Harbor Avenue and Sea Wolfe Passage marks the end of construction enabled by a $200,000 general obligation bond passed by Corte Madera residents in April, 1964. Other funds went for the main Public Safety Building on Tamalpais Drive.

Lag In Textbook Selection May Cause Dating Of Books

The budget for California's textbooks shows that a sizable portion goes to replenish old texts that have become outmoded because facts have changed since the books were first issued.

Henry MacArthur of Capitol News Service in Sacramento delved into the textbook question and discovered that in some cases, as much as two years can elapse between the time a textbook is recommended for adoption and the time it reaches the classroom.

This time lag undoubtedly contributes to the early demise of some textbooks because of outdated facts contained therein.

This poses the obvious question: Is it possible to reduce the lag between the time the text is recommended for school use and the time it actually reaches the hands of students?

If that lag can be shortened, it would extend the life of a usable text that much longer, thus saving taxpayers the cost of early replacement.

Perhaps some textbooks do require up to two years for the state curriculum commission to review, approve, print and distribute. Time is required for a careful reading of the various texts offered, and care is certainly needed to assure accuracy of reproduction by painstaking mechanics such as proofreading before the final printing. We would not want to sacrifice quality of the text chosen and the accuracy of information contained just to gain a few months time in rushing a new textbook into the classroom.

However, a legislative inquiry may be worthwhile to see if the current slow process of picking, printing and distributing textbooks can be speeded up in some way, without sacrificing the quality or accuracy of the texts that reach classrooms.

Furthermore, a more effective method of periodically screening textbooks now in use might be in order, if the obsolete textbook entitled "The Government of a Free Nation" is any indication.

Capitol News Service reports that some of the "facts" contained in this book, describing the California Legislature, are outdated by almost a decade. The director of the Department of Education was not aware of the discrepancies until they were brought to his attention last month.

These two items—possible speeding up of textbook selection and distribution, and periodic checking of texts in use to catch outdated information — might be worthy of attention by a legislative committee.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

THE LAST GOODBYE

A Chicago salesman little dreamed that he was saying his last goodbye to his wife and daughter as he boarded the morning train to ride to work.

Shortly after leaving the suburban station, the train came to a sudden stop. An auto which had gone out of control, crashed through the crossing gates and then ran into the path of the speeding train.

After 35 minutes, the wreckage was cleared. The commuter, glancing out the window as the train passed the crossing, was horrified to see that the car in the accident was his own.

At the next station, he got off and raced back to the scene of the accident, arriving just as firemen were pulling his dead wife, 46, and his seriously injured daughter, 10, from the wreckage.

Tragedy may not visit most of us under such circumstances. But someday we must appear before the Judgment Seat to give an account of our stewardship. Fulfill well the mission in life God has assigned to you and thus be ready at all times.

"Make an accounting of your stewardship, for you can be steward no longer."

(Luke 16:2)

May I live every day as though it were my last, O Lord.

Brown Summer Job Orders May Misfire In Campaign

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — Gov. Edmund G. Brown, in his pre-election frenzy to bolster up a sinking image of popularity with the voters of California, may well have misfired in his recent order to agency heads concerning the distribution of summer jobs with the state.

The order was to distribute the jobs to the "needy." He did say that the "needy" had to be qualified for the jobs, but pointed out if there were two applicants of equal capability under consideration, the decision on which applicant gets the job is to be based on his economic need.

THIS POINTS up the governor as a great humanitarian, with concern for people who have little at the expense of people who perhaps have a little more, but not enough to make such difference as far as the earnings of the young men in their families are concerned.

In the first place, the governor made no clearly defined specification of the word "needy" in his order, leaving the decisions up to the State Department of Employment, which is designated to handle the summer job placement program.

This lack of definition will permit a wide range of decisions concerning which applicants can qualify as "needy" and which cannot meet a vague definition.

In the second place, there seems to be no realization of the fact that every young man is "needy" when it comes to working during those months he is not attending high school or college.

HE NEEDS a job first to earn money on his own, second to start the break away from home environment and third to begin the process of becoming a productive citizen. In other words, this is that age period when society starts making men out of boys.

But, under the Brown order, the boys who can stay home with father are denied the constitutional right to compete for state jobs, as they have one strike on them before they ever apply.

It is small wonder, then, that the young man from a normal family, which is earning a living, paying taxes to help support the so-called "needy," feels a sense of frustration at the situation in general, and with his government in particular, as his government is practicing the same discrimination against him that it challenges so vociferously in other fields.

GOVERNMENT'S over-protective laws covering the employment of young men and women make it extremely difficult for them to obtain summer employment. Many private employers refuse to hire these young people because of the red tape involved in the process.

But the governor has made no move to decrease the requirements of these "child labor" barriers to summer employment for all the young people of the state who want to work and start the process of growing into productive citizens.

To propose such a thing would be unthinkable from a political standpoint, as it might offend labor union lobbyists.

Parceling out the state summer jobs to the "needy" is a much easier course of action, and has a great deal more appeal to the voters of the state, who shortly will be called upon to attempt retention of the administration in public office.

What's Wrong With Our Welfare Program

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I agree 100 per cent with your editorial "California Does Not Need National Jobless Pay Law," April 19.

Also wish to say in reference to the statement by Walter Bremond quoted on the first page of the news section of the same issue, i.e., "They can make more money gambling or just standing around waiting . . . for the welfare check." Mr. Bremond has put his finger squarely on the fundamental weakness of our whole welfare program. As presently operated it makes "bums" out of formerly honest people and those who are already bums it keeps that way!

Drath Supported As Loyal Opposition

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Phil Drath (who is running for Congress) stands for the policy I voted for in the last Presidential election — along with an overwhelming majority of my fellow citizens. The mandate we gave to LBJ was for building a great society and AGAINST Goldwater's brinkmanship.

We, the people, have not changed that mandate, while somehow President Johnson has been led to embrace his rejected opponent's position. According to the most authoritative public opinion poll, conducted by Stanford social scientists and the National Opinion Research Center, the majority of Americans have not lost faith in the President—yet have not gained faith in the course he is taking. The majority accept the President's sincerity in seeking a negotiated settlement in Viet Nam, but see that the means to this end is acceptance of all Vietnamese parties including the so-called Viet Cong.

The Goldwaterites now tell us to elect Congressmen who endorse the President's mistakes. They even tell us that a negotiated settlement would be appeasement, that rejection of escalation is close to treason. Let us support the President's loyal opposition, comprising the best informed Congressmen, scholars, and journalists.

Marin Study Center Article Appreciated

Editor, Independent-Journal:

May I express the appreciation of the Advisory Committee for the Marin Study Center for Bruce Coleman's feature stories about the Study Center. He effectively described the spirit of the Study Center and the close, constructive relationships that develop between our tutors and children.

The program serves children from the third through the twelfth grade, and is aided, this year, by $15,150 in federal funds from the anti-poverty program. Funds have provided a paid staff and materials which have greatly improved the entirely volunteer program that initiated and carried on the Study Center for the first two years.

From the beginning the Advisory Committee has been characterized by its broad community participation. The Committee included members of the Marin City community, personnel from the Sausalito School District and the Tamalpais High School District, Red Cross, several churches, the Council of Community Services, Dominican College, College of Marin, P-TA groups and others.

Not only has our tutor roster recently included the San Francisco State students and others mentioned by Mr. Coleman, but we have many more recruited by the Red Cross, the Marin Volunteer Bureau and others. Among our tutors are volunteers from six local public and private high schools, College of Marin, Dominican College, teachers from various districts, and other interested adults. . . . Other volunteers provide and serve refreshments for younger children, serve as librarians, attendance clerks, and have assisted in developing office procedures and practices.

We are more than grateful for the dedication and service from all our volunteers and hope that others will want to work in the program during the coming school year. . . .

Small Group Causing Trouble

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The headline article of April 19th's I-J touched on the absurdity of the present Marin City situation. This article revealed that Walter Bremond, community relations director of Marin City, has been sitting on 30 job openings for over two months. He reasons that it is beneath the dignity of a Negro dropout, with little or no experience, to work for the national minimum wage. Ironically, he and Douglas Quiett, chairman of the county human rights commission, support this contention by stating that these dropouts can make more money by committing crime or by living off our tax dollars. Simply stated, this bunch wants and demands that it be bribed into "honesty." It is noteworthy that this group and the aforementioned leaders have repeatedly used the "lack of employment" as justification for recent rioting and violence. Their reasoning, statements and these facts show that many of their problems are self induced. In turn I seriously question the possibility of recent incidents being self induced to bring political pressure to bear on the Board of Supervisors and the Sheriff's Department.

I am sure that only a small group of Marin City residents are the center of our county's problems, but if we continue to appease the troublemakers, our problems have only begun. Backing down to lawbreakers not only defeats the law but berates the many of us who have chosen to be honest and industrious — no matter what our color.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

FROM MONTE Carlo comes the story of a marquise who played hostess to a party of twenty in her villa on the Riviera. Something must have been wrong with the fish, because all the guests became violently ill at the same time. Four, as a matter of fact, expired on the spot. The compassionate marquise who, fortunately for herself, never ate fish, declared, "Four dead, eh? It's a sign!" and rushed off to the Casino to bet a bundle on Number Four at the roulette table. Number Five came up. Bitterly disappointed, she wended her way back to her villa, where she promptly dropped dead of heart failure. She herself was the fifth to die there than evening. This was something, obviously, that the dear lady hadn't reckoned on!

TWO DILAPIDATED bums sat idly in the sun in Central Park. "You know why I'm here?" demanded one moodily. "I'm a failure because I never took advice from anybody." "I'm as badly off as you are," his bench-mate reminded him. "I took advice from EVERYBODY!"

OFT-QUOTED observation by Mark Hellinger: "Nobody likes a yes-man but did you ever notice how few no-men are working?"

Keep Your Eye On Senator Javits In The Republican National Scene

WASHINGTON — You need to keep an eye on New York State politics. It bears acutely on the national political scene.

There is much talk about the biggest Republican vote-getter in New York — Sen. Jacob Javits — challenging the second biggest Republican vote-getter — Nelson Rockefeller — for renomination as governor.

It keeps bursting into the headlines because so much is at stake:

1. Whether Governor Rockefeller can be re-elected to a third term this fall under any circumstances, and, particularly, without the energetic support of Mr. Javits who in 1962 got nearly twice as many votes for senator as Rockefeller got for governor.

2. Whether Rockefeller will construe a third-term election, by whatever margin, as an irresistable incentive to go after the 1968 presidential nomination despite two past failures.

3. And what course Javits can best pursue to keep his name persuasively to the fore as a most plausible vice presidential candidate.

Some political reporters are touting a major Javits-Rockefeller rivalry and feud because Javits didn't leap at Rocky's offer to make him his campaign manager. Instead, he took an independent look at the Rockefeller sentiment upstate and is not rushing into any quick decision as to exactly what he is going to do.

These are all prudent and rational actions on the part of a highly popular senator who would obviously like to be his party's vice presidential nominee two years hence.

There are good reasons for Javits to make his own estimate on how difficult it would be for Rockefeller to get re-elected. Not long ago one poll had Rockefeller support down to 27 per cent. A more recent pool places him at 41 per cent and Rockefeller's own aides agree that he is under 50 per cent. Rocky will have a hard, uncertain time of it but could pull through.

Some suggest that the senator is toying with the idea of challenging Rockefeller for the governorship nomination in order to open the way for him to get on the national ticket in 1968.

This just doesn't make sense. If he were seeking the New York governorship the first thing he would have to do would be to commit himself to serve a full term. This would mean renouncing all possibility of any national office for the next four years.

I think there are very practical reasons why Javits has not dashed to Albany the instant the Governor beckoned to him with the offer of becoming campaign manager.

Javits had to measure for himself how much political trouble Rockefeller was in and whether he had even a fair, uphill chance to win.

And it is more up to Javits to offer to help Rockefeller than it is to Rockefeller to offer Javits the opportunity. Rockefeller needs Javits more than Javits needs Rockefeller.

If Javits is going to put himself at Rockefeller's disposal for his third-term campaign, it is reasonable that the senator should want firm assurance that Rockefeller is not going to try for the 1968 Presidential nomination and will actively help Javits before and at the national convention.

If any New Yorker (Rockefeller, Nixon or Lindsay) gets the nomination, Javits would be out of the picture. But when I was in Michigan recently, there was much talk of Javits as a running mate for Gov. George Romney.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Tri Quang Feared As 'Dangerous Man'

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Gen. William Westmoreland and militant Buddhist leader Thich Tri Quang appear headed for a direct collision.

In urgent messages to the joint chiefs of staff, the commander of U.S. forces in South Viet Nam charges Tri Quang is covertly arming students and Buddhists in the First Corps area and endangering the security of the 50,000 U.S. troops there.

The "shock troops" of Tri Quang, Westmoreland warned, already have taken over the province and district offices in the Da Nang area after shooting, kidnapping and intimidating South Vietnamese loyal to the Ky government.

IF THIS ALARMING development continues, Westmoreland held, it could lead to a situation where U.S. troops might have to fight to defend themselves.

Westmoreland pointed out many villages in the strategic First Corps area are on the edge of the U.S. defense perimeter where the heaviest infiltration of North Vietnamese regulars has taken place in the past two months.

Westmoreland, who refers to Tri Quang as "the most dangerous man in Viet Nam today," is also deeply concerned that the militant monk's armed groups will cut the supply lines of the big Marine air and ground bases at Da Nang.

Documentary evidence obtained by intelligence shows that Tri Quang has set up his own labor union in Central Viet Nam, and that it is heavily infiltrated with Viet Cong and "refugees" from North Viet Nam.

TRI QUANG'S LABOR organization reputedly has a two-pronged purpose: To weaken control of the anti-Communist South Vietnamese labor confederation, and to control the dock and supply areas through which U.S. military cargoes flow.

With U.S. troops in the Da Nang area having less than a month's supply of arms and munitions, a crippling dock tie-up could dangerously hamper their combat effectiveness.

While refraining from a direct political recommendation, General Westmoreland stressed that Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, chairman of the National Leadership Committee and head of the ruling military council, is the most stable and pro-U.S. official in South Viet Nam.

Both General Thieu and Premier Ky can be counted on, Westmoreland believes, to fully support the war effort and work for the election of a "national assembly friendly to the U.S."

AMBASSADOR LODGE, who once gave Tri Quang asylum in the U.S. embassy when he was hunted by the late President Diem, also is advising the White House not to encourage or support the Buddhist leader.

Some reasons for Lodge's strong misgivings about Tri Quang are informations from intelligence officers on Westmoreland's staff that the monk has ties with Communist leaders in Hanoi, and a report by the U.S. Information Agency linking Tri Quang with the burning of its library at Hue while General Maxwell Taylor was U.S. Ambassador.

The forceful warnings of Westmoreland and Lodge about Tri Quang come at a time when influential officials of the administration are portraying the controversial monk as a nationalist who would continue the war against the Communists.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

Corte Madera's Two Firemen Now Have A Firehouse For Each Man

Corte Madera now has one fire house for every fireman on the town payroll. That's a pretty good ratio, even if you take into consideration the fact that the town has only two paid firemen—Chief Frank Nelson and assistant chief Lee Larson, the only full time fireman. The rest are volunteers.

The desired ratio of fire houses to firemen was reached with completion of the public safety substation in east Corte Madera last week. The station, which will be unmanned but will house two fire trucks, was built for use by volunteer firemen in east Corte Madera. All that needs to be done now is to recruit more firemen east of the highway. Larson acknowledged this week that there are only three volunteers living in that portion of town.

I AM NOT the only person concerned with the problem of Corte Madera's unleashed dogs. Herber C. Leney, outgoing president of the Mariner Cove Improvement Assn., reports that directors of his organization read the column proposing a leash law for the town. They agreed to try to organize meetings with other homeowner associations ot see what can be done about the problem. A step in the right direction.

A shift in tactics is in store for the Greenbrae Property Owners Assn., which has been seeking protection for pedestrians on the narrow walkway along the north side of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard between Eliseo Drive and Wolfe Grade.

THE CAMPAIGN began when two little girls, sisters, were struck and killed by an auto as they walked along the sidewalk. For starters, the speed limit was reduced from 45 to 35 miles per hour. That satisfied only a portion of the demands for pedestrian protection. Property owners also asked that a guard rail be placed between the walkway and the street.

According to John E. Koster, association president, the board of directors is now considering abandoning the request for a guard rail and instituting, instead, a campaign to keep pedestrians off the Drake Boulevard sidewalk altogether.

People could get to the same destinations by traveling neighborhood sidewalks off the boulevard, he pointed out. Besides, he said, chances are that Drake would not be safe for pedestrians, even with the guard rail. A car could always crash through or over the rail.

Anti-Defamation League, Lomax See Problems Writer Can't Find

We intellectual pygmies who live close enough to the earth to keep our feet on it never see things as clearly as the intellectual giants who live in the Ivory Tower and get a truer perspective.

Thus, from my narrow point of view, anti-Semitism in in America seemed reduced almost to the vanishing point. The want ads of my boyhood often added "None but Gentiles need apply," but today Jews are prominent in every line of endeavor—and I mistook that for progress.

If sporadically there arose a handful of kooks like the American Nazis, they made no more headway than the doctrine of vegetarianism has among the lions of Africa.

OH, I KNOW there are clubs that would bar me because of my religion, just as there are Jewish circles where my politics makes me equally unwelcome. Neither bothers me, because I have no desire to go where I'm not wanted; and, besides, I think the most fundamental of civil rights is that of choosing your social companions.

And frankly — strictly between us—I think both groups are missing some pretty good conversation. And it serves 'em right.

But now I find I've been living in a fool's paradise. For the Anti-Defamation League, which might have disbanded with its mission accomplished, isn't taking this lying down. If anti-Semitism goes, they're out of business; and they do not propose to go the way of the village blacksmith.

So they've investigated and come up with the world-shaking discovery that there are still some Protestants and Catholics who don't like Jews. And they're publishing a book about it, though I daresay they will gloss over the fact that there are, percentage wise, an equal number of Jews who distrust Catholics and Protestants. Especially if they vote GOP.

THE VOLUME will be promoted through various organizations and many congregations will look at the book rather than the world around them, and begin to fear that Hitlerism is on the rise here. And, Parkinson's law still being in effect, it is a safe bet the League will need more money than ever to cope with the menace.

Well, live and unlearn. Back in 1960, in a piece on our minorities, I wrote: "That the American Negro has had a hard time, nobody can deny. But what he has accomplished in the last century, from Uncle Tom to George Washington Carver, is almost without parallel."

And I pointed out that many whites, from Harriet Beecher Stowe to Branch Rickey, had helped to open the doors of opportunuity that had begun to swing wide for the colored man. Here again I saw progress every year, as I did the other day when three California towns elected Negro mayors in hamlets where the choice did not depend on colored voters.

Louis Lomax's rather sensational invasion of Los Angeles seemed to bear me out. A year or so ago, this Negro writer came here as a virtual unknown. Since then he has a highly popular TV show which goes on twice a week and, though decidedly left of center, is handsomely supported by ads. In addition he now has a daily radio program, writes books and articles, lectures at our colleges and debates before crowded audiences.

Now to an ignoramus like myself, this was proof overwhelming that America lays no bar down to genuine ability. Here was a real Horatio Alger story, for Lomax tells us he began as a bootblack in the South. Today his income must place him in the upper 10 per cent. And not only is he in Who's Who, but he proudly displays a key to the Playboy Club.

INDEED, HE HAS achieved to the full the dream of every American boy, with the possible exception of never having married Zsa-Zsa Gabor. But he's comparatively young yet, and who knows what the future will bring?

So I was bowled over a few months ago when, in a debate at a local college, he lifted his arms to Heaven and cried out piteously, "Take this yoke from my neck!" I'm still looking for the alleged yoke, but so far I'm like the kid who thought the king was naked when he was wearing his new suit.

But, yoke or not, Lomax has just shown he swing a mean left even Cassius Clay might envy. The radio station on which he appears five days a week in two-hour sessions, aimed almost entirely at Negro listeners, recently signed five different programs, each for a weekly 15-minute slot to follow Lomax.

But they are all right-wing, and that offended Lomax. So he told the station, "either they go or I do." And, since he has the larger following and his admirers threatened reprisals, the station abruptly cut off the offending program "in the public interest." Or so they said.

our eager seller rushed to the country to retire, only to discover in a very short time that all his friends were still in the city! "Sell," he cried, "my house!" Now if you have the foresight he lacks, this is a bargain for you. 3-year-old hill top home with a vast view, huge wrap-around sun deck. 1100 sq. ft. includes huge living-dining room with fireplace, 2 big bedrooms, built-in G. E. kitchen. Beamed ceilings thruout. 700 sq. ft. additional unfinished space. He's already moved back to the city and has put an anxious $21,950 price on his mistake. We can confirm by comparison that this is well below the market value.

110—New Imported & Spts. Cars for Sale

A & E MOTORS

You've asked for it—we've asked for it—so the NSU factory in West Germany has come up with it—greater range of size, style, power and price has been added to the NSU family of fine cars in the form of two new members. We've not changed the four existing models that have gained such an enviable reputation so quickly. After all, why tamper with success, just for the sake of change?

HOWEVER—

our NEW ARRIVALS from the Old Country are MORE ROOMY — MORE POWERFUL — MORE LUXURIOUS, if only a trifle more costly. STYLING—near perfection. APPOINTMENTS—exquisite, yet functional. POWER—superior to anything in their class, and equal to many priced so very much higher, thanks to the astounding WANKEL ROTARY ENGINE.

PLEASE

come in and see for yourself. Admire all we have to offer in every model. Torture-Test-Tour these magical autos, then choose the one you want—all of them feature a 12 MONTHS or 12 THOUSAND MILE UNCONDITIONAL WARRANTY, INCLUDING PARTS AND LABOR—FROM ONLY $1595 TO $2995.

TO CELEBRATE

we are having OPEN HOUSE FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, UNTIL 10 EACH NIGHT, featuring free refreshments, free favors for the kiddies, and our cordial invitation to you to experience the thrill of a motoring lifetime — FINE CAR PLEASURE AT SUCH LOW, LOW PRICES.

111—Used Imported & Spts. Cars for Sale

Introducing a used Volkswagen guarantee without any "you pay half, we pay half" nonsense

Most used car dealers sell their cars with 50-50 guarantees. You know the deal: If anything goes wrong, you pay half the cost of parts and labor. And they do the same.

Well, we don't sell used VWs that way. We guarantee the repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1,000 miles. There's no charge for parts, labor, anything.

They've all passed a tough 16-point safety and performance test. They're reconditioned and ready to roll.

In short: A car with a 100% guarantee costs no more in the beginning. And won't drive you to the poorhouse in the end.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

There were 106 confirmed and presumptive cases of malaria in the United States last year. Civilians accounted for 56 cases of which 10 were Peace Corps workers. Thirty-six of the 51 cases in military personnel developed the disease in Viet Nam, and in this regard, it is not necessarily a war that is bringing the disease close to home.

Synthetic anti-malarial drugs were developed after quinine became scarce shortly after the start of World War II. They were effective as a remedy and prophylactic. Many authorities believed that they were superior to quinine.

TWENTY YEARS later we are confronted with a well-known problem with synthetic drugs: Malaria parasites are becoming resistant to chloroquine and other synthetic antimalarials. It may be necessary to again use quinine as a prophylactic and reserve the others for treatment.

Malaria is one of the worst of all human ailments. The chronic ill health that appears in communities where it is rife stifle ambition and the working and fighting capacity of the population. The malady has been known to gradually destroy the virility of whole nations.

THE FARMER had little to look forward to when his chores were done. On returning home he developed a chill followed by a high fever and profuse sweating. By morning weakness and prostration were so great he could hardly walk.

The chill was the real McCoy; with chattering teeth, blue and cold skin and uncontrollable shaking that lasted an hour. This was followed by two hours of high fever leaving him drowsy and exhausted.

The mosquito transmits the different forms of malarial organisms. In the quotidian type chills and fever occur daily; whereas in the vivax forms, symptoms occur on alternate days.

WHEN THERE is an interval of three days between chills, the quartan type is suspected. This is not always so simple as it sounds because mixtures occur in areas where the condition is epidemic.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

Senator Suggests Passport Chief Quit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said in a Senate speech Frances G. Knight should resign as head of the State Department passport office because she has "become unfit for the important position she holds."

Miss Knight has been at odds with advocates of liberalized immigration policies, particularly Abba Schwartz, who resigned recently as director of security and consular affairs for the State Department.

Television Taken

Mrs. Barbara Lauritsen reported to Mill Valley police yesterday that between 8:30 a.m. and 3:40 p.m., someone forced open the kitchen door of her home at 1 Sunrise Avenue and stole a television set valued at $145 and an FM-AM radio-phonograph valued at $150.

Faubus Keeps Promise Not To Run Again

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus, the nation's second longest-term state chief executive, made good yesterday his promise to quit after 12 years of office.

Faubus, who surrounded Central High School with National Guardsmen in 1957 to become a symbol of southern resistance to racial desegregation, said March 21 he would not seek a seventh term. Politicians doubted him then.

But he made it official by failing to file for the July 26 Democratic primary election. yesterday was the deadline.

The Arkansas Gazette called Faubus' action "the most unbelievable" aspect of the state political scene.

Faubus, 56, a former Ozark Mountain schoolmaster, said he made the decision to quit "with regret."

"I might never run for anything else," Faubus said. "But I might come back in two, four, six or eight years."

Faubus' absence from the ballot may give the Republicans their first chance to elect a governor since Reconstruction. Winthrop Rockefeller, brother of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, is running again. He came closer to winning than any other Republican when he opposed Faubus in 1964.

Eight Democrats and two Republicans signed up for the primary.

SANTA MONICA (AP)—Charles W. Hinman, land developer convicted of plotting the death of his wife and a prominent attorney, faces a maximum sentence of 25 years in prison and $25,000 fine.

A jury of 11 women and one man found Hinman guilty yesterday on five counts of solicitation to commit murder. Each count carries a possible five years and $5,000 penalty.

TELEVISION REVIEW

'Lamp At Midnight' A Dramatic Winner

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Melvyn Douglas and NBC-TV's "Hallmark Hall of Fame" pooled their considerable resources again last night and came up with another dramatic winner:

"Lamp at Midnight," a 90-minute story of how the scientific findings of Gallileo, a devoutly religious man, brought him into anguished conflict with the 17th Century Catholic church.

Earlier this season, Douglas starred in the "Hall of Fame" version of the stage success "Inherit the Wind," and, as that play, about the famous evolution trial of John T. Scopes, concerned the literal interpretation of the Bible, so, by coincidence, did his latest effort about Galileo.

Because of the recent debates between liberals and conservatives of the Catholic church, "Lamp at Midnight," adapted from the play by Barrie Stavis, was contemporary in the best sense of the word.

Dramatizing the heart of the play's contention was the fact that the production was introduced by the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Chicago, John Patrick Cody, who said:

"The quest for truth has always been pursued by certain men of each century. Sometimes the results of this thirst for knowledge were ill-received by that contemporary age. Yet in time, the judgment of mankind mellows and turns from the vinegar of prejudice to the wine of wisdom.

"This is the lesson behind tonight's play. It is the story of a man whom our Holy Father Pope Paul has called a great spirit of immortal memory. In the light of his words I commend to you tonight's performance of 'Lamp at Midnight'—the story of Galileo Galilei."

The archbishop's commendation was well placed and his point unmistakable. The story, quite simply, hinged on the fact that Galileo, aided by telescopes, discovered that the Aristotelian view of the earth as the center of the universe was wrong.

Galileo felt the church could co-exist with scientific discoveries and would be stronger for it. But leading churchmen of the time disagreed, attacked him as heretical and said that even if his findings were correct, they would allow reason to undermine faith.

Negro Acquitted In Watts Death Of Policeman

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Negro man stands acquitted of a second-degree murder charge that resulted from the death of a law officer in last August's South Los Angeles riots.

Philip Bentley Brooks, 23, had been accused in the shotgun shooting of Deputy Ronald Ludlow, 27, but a jury of six men and six women found him innocent yesterday.

The prosecution had contended that Brooks grabbed the shotgun, held by Deputy William B. Lauer, and caused it to discharge, fatally wounding Ludlow last Aug. 13.

Brooks and his companions testified that the gun fired when Lauer struck Brooks with its butt and that Brooks had his hands in the air at the time. Brooks and his companions had been stopped by the deputies for questioning.

Demonstrations Close School

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — The rector of the University of Barcelona, Spain's second largest seat of learning, has closed the 15,000-student institution indefinitely because of demonstrations against disciplinary measures.

Club-swinging police broke up a tumultuous demonstration yesterday by an estimated 300 students. Twelve students were held.

No information was available on a Roman Catholic priest on the university faculty, Father Alvarez Bolado, who, student sources claimed, was struck by the police and arrested.

Doctor Accuses Fired Teacher

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An East Whittier physician has testified that a former elementary school teacher told her pupils that Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is a socialist, that Negroes are inferior and that Dr. Martin Luther King is a communist.

Dr. Harry Steinberg and his wife, Cornelia, made the accusations yesterday at a hearing for Mrs. Betty Meeker, 41, a former sixth-grade teacher at Murphy Ranch School in East Whittier.

The Steinbergs said Mrs. Meeker made the remarks while their 13-year-old daughter was in her class two years ago.

Mrs. Meeker is challenging the school district's refusal to renew her contract. She has not yet testified.

Mrs. Ruth Barely Flinches When Mays Socks One

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Every time the New York Yankees lose a game and Willie Mays hits a home run, Mrs. Babe Ruth's heart leaps a little.

"I live and die with the Yankees," the widow of the greatest baseball slugger of them all said today. "They were the Babe's team. They're also mine."

"I am keenly interested also in Willie Mays' home run campaign. He's the only present player with even a chance of catching the Babe's lifetime total of 714, but I think it's very remote.

"He would have to hit 40 home runs a year for the next five years." Mays has 511, matching the National League record.

Mrs. Ruth, a bouncy little lady with an unflagging interest in baseball, is a woman living with a glorious memory. Her 14th floor apartment on Manhattan's Riverside Drive is full of pictures and mementos of the immortal Yankee outfielder, who died of throat cancer in 1948 at the age of 53.

"These are only a fraction, some things I managed to keep for my own," she said. "Truck loads of stuff have been hauled to the Babe Ruth Shrine in Cooperstown, N.Y.

"The Babe always said the 1927 Yankees were the best — the best ever assembled, and the Babe knew. He thought the 1932 team was next."

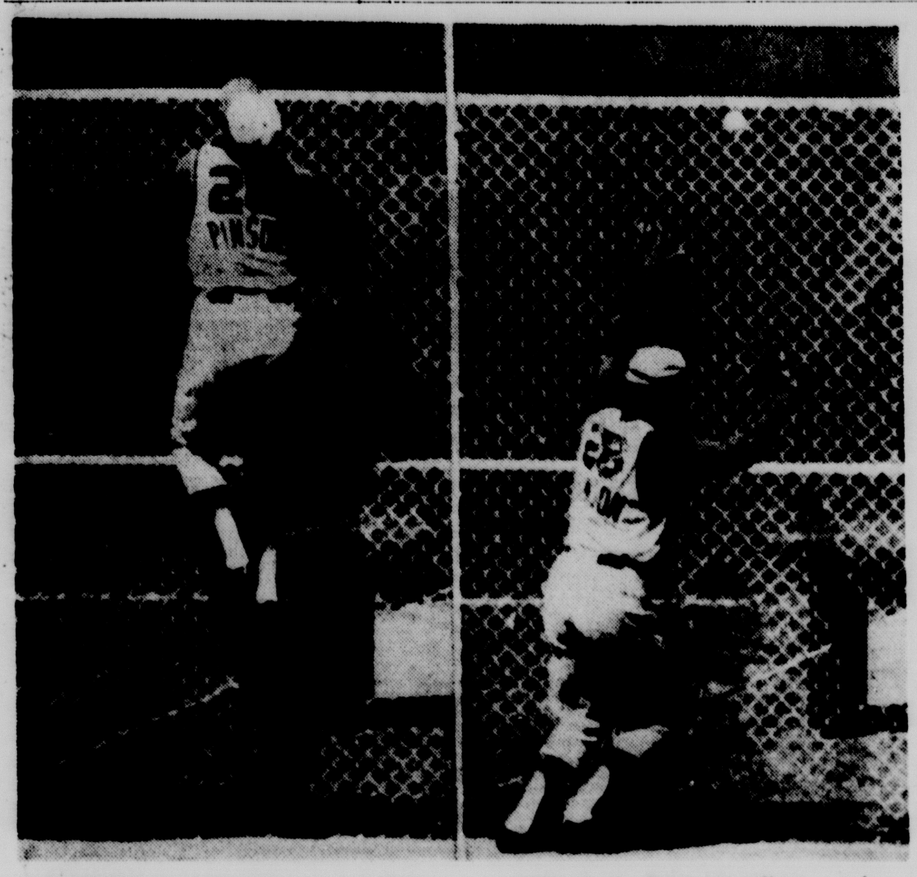
Mrs. Ruth manages to keep busy. She says she sees about two-thirds of the Yankee home games and also occasionally goes out to watch the Mets because of her admiration for General Manager George Weiss, one of the Babe's closest friends in the old days.

She travels considerably and is active in the Babe Ruth leagues for players between the ages of 13 and 18. "We now have 200,000 players in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Australia," she says. "These youngsters would have been dear to the Babe's heart."

The Babe's widow said she thought Ruth's all-time record of 714 homers would endure for years "because players don't last as long now — night baseball shortens their careers."

But if the proud mark should be shattered, Mrs. Ruth insists she would have no regrets.

"The Babe will always be remembered as the first who did it," she said. "I don't know how many people have flown the Atlantic alone but people only remember Charles Lindberg. And of all those who have swum the English Channel, all are forgotten except Gertrude Ederle."



LEAPING VADA—Cincinnati Reds centerfielder Vada Pinson leaps high but can't reach the ball hit by Giants' Ollie Brown during yesterday's game in Candlestick Park. In addition to Brown's first major league homer, Willie McCovey hit a grand slam, but it was not enough as the Reds, led by the hitting of Pinson, beat the Giants 8-6. (AP Wirephotos)

NBA Title On Line Tonight

Celtics Favored To Whip Lakers

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Celtics, smarting but determined, and the rejuvenated Los Angeles Lakers, cocky after two comeback victories, meet tonight for the National Basketball Association championship.

"We'll win it," said Coach Red Auerbach of Boston, who wants to move upstairs fulltime as general manager with an eighth straight championship.

"To a man, we know we can win it," said Coach Fred Schaus of Los Angeles, whose Lakers seek to become the first team in NBA history to win three straight after dropping behind 3-1 in the best-of-seven series.

Television station KQED, Channel 9, will carry the Celtics-Lakers title game today, starting at 5:15 p.m., with a taped repeat at 10 p.m.

The Celtics are rated an overwhelming eight-point favorite in the title showdown despite a 121-117 loss in Boston last Sunday and the Lakers' convincing 123-115 victory in Los Angeles Tuesday.

"We're one team that doen't suffer from Celtic-itis," Schaus said. "Anything can happen in Boston. We've won three of our last four there and know we can do it. I'm sure the Celtics feel as sure as we do. The game should be a honey."

Auerbach, winding up 20 years as a coach, refused to alibi the loss in the sixth game at Los Angeles, saying, "We simply were outplayed."

"It wil lbe a different story at the Garden," Auerbach said. "I promise you that."

With another sellout crowd of 13,909 assured, a close duel appeared certain. The Celtics' tight defense, shattered in the last two games, regrouped in an attempt to stop Elgin Baylor, Jerry West and an unexpected second punch from rookie Gail Goodrich and Rudy LaRusso.

The Celtics, who rebounded from losing their Eastern Division regular season reign by one game to Philadelphia in gaining the NBA title round, are determined to go all the way.

Boston, which ruled the East for nine straight years, defeated Philadelphia 4-1 in the play offs, but now faces a seventh game for the league championship for the first time since 1962. The Celtics have won eight of nine NBA championships since Bill Russell joined the club in December, 1956.

"I'll let the Lakers do all the talking," said Russell, who missed two games of the finals in a loss to St. Louis in 1958.

"They won in L.A.—and they can talk," the 6-foot-10 defensive specialist added on the eve of his final game as team captain, prior to moving up as a playing-coach to succeed Auerbach.

Sam Jones, smarting from two straight poor performances, offensively and defensively, sounded the Celtics' feelings:

"We have tremendous pride and that, more than the money,

Altitude Training Limited

ROME (AP) — The talk in sports circles today was the decision by the International Olympic Committee to limit the period of high-altitude training for athletes in the 1968 Summer Games.

In an unusual move the OIC decreed last night that training in altitudes comparable to the altitude of Mexico City — 7,600 feet—in the last three months prior to the Games, be limited to four weeks. Mexico City will be the site of the 1968 Games.

The rule does not apply to athletes permanently living and training in highland countries.

Avery Brundage, OIC president, said in announcing the decision that anybody trying to circumvent the regulation would face possible disqualification.

Two of the few prominent exemptions from the rule will be Kenya's star long distance runner, Kipchoge Keino, and Ethiopia's marathon gold medal winner of the 1960 and 1964 Olympics, Abebe Bikila. Both live and train in high altitudes.

The rule does not exclude high-altitude training of any given duration between now and three months before the 1968 Games begin.

Some countries are known to build training camps in their highlands. France is doing it in the Pyrenees. The Russians even plan to move their national championships to the mountainous Alma Ata region in the Khirgiz Republic to get their athletes used to competing in the thin air of high altitude.

OIC members, officials of the international sports federations and the National Olympic committees attended a big victory party given last night by the cities of Munich, Germany, and Sapporo, Japan.

They were voted to stage the 1972 Olympic Summer and Winter Games, respectively, at the OIC meeting.

A Showdown For Prep Tracksters

A real showdown will end the Marin Athletic League dual track meet season tomorrow when undefeated Tamalpais and Terra Linda prep teams clash on the Terra Linda field.

Winner of the meet, which starts at 4 p.m., will earn the varsity championship pennant for 1966 track and field.

Terra Linda Coach Bob Martin is the first to admit the record favors Tamalpais to win the title. "I'm not too pessimistic," said Martin, "but we'll need some come through performances."

The sprints and hurdles will be vital parts of tomorrow's meet to decide the champ. And if it goes down to the 880-yard relay, the championship may be won by a matter of inches.

In the 120 highs, Tam should pick up first and second, and this is where some "extra effort" will be needed by the Trojans. Indians Ken Blasingame and Mitchell Howard have the two best times in the league, 14.9 and 15.2, respectively. For Terra Linda, Tom Flautt has a 15.3 to his credit and Lowell Harris has recorded a 15.5.

Dick Honey of Terra Linda is the top low hurdler in the league, boasting a 19.6 in the 180 lows, but he has been out of the last two Trojan meets with a pulled muscle in his left leg. Since Tam's Honor Jackson has a 20.3 to his credit, the Trojans will lose more points if Honey has to sit out the race.

Tam has a good chance of taking a first and second in the 100-yard dash, as Jackson's 10.0 and Alan Lee's 10.2 are bested only by Drake's Dean Lazzarini. Lee has run the 220 in 22.3, but Terra Linda's Ron Omo clocked a wind-aided 21.9 Tuesday against San Rafael.

The 880 relay is really close. Tam's team of Don Smith, Blasingame, Jackson and Lee has stopped the clock at 1:31.7, one step better than Terra Linda's team which has a 1:31.8 to its credit.

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

College Of Marin Swimmers Beginning To Make A Splash

BASKETBALL HAS always been the big headline grabber in College of Marin's athletic annals, what with a national championship team in 1948 and conference titles in seven of the last nine years shoving other Tar sports into the background.

But it looks as if the Tar hoopsters may be forced to share some of the spotlight before long with swimming, although the sport is only two years old at the Kentfield school.

The Tar natators have won 14 meets while losing 8 this season, which is a pretty fine record when you consider their squad numbers only nine men. Smallest squad the Tars went against was a 12-man lineup from Cabrillo College.

BUT MARIN specializes in quality over quantity and could make a surprisingly strong showing tomorrow and Saturday in the Northern California Junior College Championships at Visalia. Their tremendous improvement this year is highlighted by new school records in every event!

According to Coach Bob Justice, a 30-year-old transplanted Iowan by way of U. of Iowa and San Jose State, Tar Tom Knopf is a good bet for All-American honors in the 100 and 200-yard butterfly events. A San Rafael High graduate, as are five of the nine Tar natators, Knopf has the second fastest time in the 200 fly in Northern California this season and could come home from Visalia with one, possibly two individual titles.

THE OTHER ex-San Rafael stars on the lineup are Dean Ferrandini, Bill Pandiani, Larry Thompson and Paul Ransom.

Ferrandini is "Mr. Versatility," swimming any event.

Pandiani, a star for the Marin championship cage team, has been a pleasant surprise, bettering school records in every meet despite a late start. He has chopped off 14 seconds from last year's Marin 200 yard breaststroke record.

ANOTHER MARIN strong point is the 400-yard medley relay team consisting of Ferrandini, Pandiani, Knopf and Bill Anderson, the latter a Tam High grad. They have the second fastest time in Norcal.

Anderson, by the way, has been beaten only twice in the 200-yard freestyle this year.

Marin's 800-yard free relay team is untested going into the weekend's meet at Visalia, but all four men—Anderson, Knopf, Ferrandini and Redwood graduate Steve Hoxie—have broken two minutes, as has alternate Bill Partridge, another Redwood alumnus.

HOXIE HAS been outstanding in the distance freestyle and butterfly events all season, according to Justice.

The other Tar swimmer is Ken Jones, who came here from Albuquerque, N.M. and is the only non-Marin native on the lineup.

As I said, basketball has copped most of College of Marin's headlines, but the swimmers may make a big splash this weekend. We wish them smooth and speedy sailing.

Vada Pinson's Family Went Home Happy

The group from Oakland went back home across San Francisco Bay happy even though Willie Mays hadn't broken the National League career home run record and the Giants had lost.

For in the group were Vada Pinson's wife, three youngsters, father and mother, some in-laws and four neighbors.

All Vada had done for Cincinatti was hit two singles, a double and a triple in four times at bat, score three times and drive in a pair of runs as the Reds won yesterday 8-6.

"They had to come to see me because I haven't been home since spring training started," explained Pinson of his rooting section. They also saw him rob pinch-hitter Cap Peterson with a running, diving catch in the eighth.

Mays went 0-4 and retired after the sixth inning with an upset stomach. Trainer Leo Hughes said the star centerfielder had no fever so he was expected back today to try again for that 512th homer. Willie left after the Giants tied the score 6-6 largely due to Willie McCovey's grand slam homer that followed a solo by rookie Ollie Brown.

So far, he's failed in three home games and the Giants have lost them all—twice to Atlanta and once to the Reds who sent right-hander Sammy Ellis to the mound facing Juan Marichal at Candlestock Park this afternoon.

His production in the San Francisco opener boosted him to .386 including four doubles, three triples and a homer.

"I'm happy with all I can get," he said with a grin. "I just go with the ball. Once before I had a good start, but I can't say just which year. And I can't even say I'm off to a good start now. This season is just too early."

Manager Don Heffner decided to switch Pinson from center to right field because he felt the seven-year major league veteran had the strongest arm of his outfielders.

"I'm not doing as much work out there as I did in center," Pinson admitted, "and I have a problem on balls hit away to the foul line. But I'm doing my best."

He had played right field in the minors, but has been in center during his major league career.

Redwood '9' Wins Another Practice Tilt

Redwood High School's baseball team won another non-league game yetserday, this time 9-1 over Terra Nova of Pacifica, stretching its practice game record to 11 wins and 1 loss.

But it's a different story when the Giants play Marin Athletic League action. Redwood's MCAL record is 1-4.

Russ Smith, normally an outfielder for Redwood, did an excellent job on the mound in yesterday's game in Larkspur, and had a shutout until the top of the seventh when Terra Nova scored its lone run. He allowed three hits, struck out five, and walked none.

ANOTHER 'BIG D'

Dodgers Win, 4-1

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don (Little D) Sutton looks like he's ready to challenge Don Drysdale for the Big D label — both on the mound and at the plate.

A 21-year-old right-hander in only his second year of professional baseball, Sutton emphasized his rapid development last night when he posted the first complete game of his major league career in the Los Angeles Dodgers' 4-1 victory over Atlanta.

Sutton's place with the Dodgers remained questionable because of his inexperience until Drysdale and Sandy Koufax went into their holdout routine during spring training. Manager Walt Alston looked at Sutton's minor league record, and then decided to look at the real thing.

He hasn't been disappointed.

"Sutton has improved every start," said Alston after the 6-foot-1, 185-pounder checked the Braves on five hits and struck out 10 while walking only one. "Right now he's the fourth best starter on the staff."

Sutton, however, may be after bigger things.

He's already posted two victories, and also is stealing some of Drysdale's hitting thunder. Big D was the Dodgers' leading hitter last year but Little D collected two hits against the Braves and now is No. 1 on the club with six hits in 13 at-bats for a .464 average.

Drysdale is winless and hitless.

Only two other National League games were played, the Houston Astros defeating St. Louis 3-1 behind Dave Giusti's three-hit pitching and Cincinnati outslugging San Francisco 8-6 as Vada Pinson went 4-for-4.

In American League action, the Chicago White Sox defeated Boston 8-6 and Washington shut out the New York Yankees 2-0.

Sutton got more than enough hitting support from Wes Parker, who drove in three runs and Maury Wills, who returned to the line-up with a four-hit performance after sitting out four games because of a pulled leg muscle.

The Dodgers broke through for three runs in the fourth inning on a double by John Roseboro, singles by Sutton and Wills and Parker's two-run triple. The final run came across in the sixth on a single by Nate Oliver, a passed ball, another Wills' single and a squeeze bunt by Parker.

Sutton, who retired 13 men in a row at one stretch, lost his shutout bid when Hank Aaron led off the ninth with his fifth homer.

Giusti allowed only a second inning single by Tim McCarver until the Cardinals scored in the ninth on two-out doubles by Curt Flood and McCarver.

Jim Wynn, however, had provided Giusti with more than enough working room. Wynn cracked a two-run homer in the first inning, then led off the sixth with a single and came around on an infield out, a wild pitch and Bob Aspromonte's double.

Joe Morgan stroked three of the Astros' seven hits off Ray Washburn and Curt Simmons, and now has a run of six consecutive hits. The league record is 10.

was traded to Baltimore in the deal that brought Milt Pappas to Cincinnati.

Asked what the loss of the slugger had meant to the Reds, Vada replied, "Losing Frank has done a little and may have done a lot. But this is a team and you can't depend on one man. It hit me, though. I'd been his roommate for seven years."

Pappas started and worked 4 2-3 innings during which time he retired Mays three times. But on one occasion, Willie lined a shot off the pitcher's heel that caromed to first for the out.

"That foot sure did hurt every time I thew the ball," commented the hurler.

Oakland 1st Foe For Dolphins

NEW YORK (UPI) —The American Football League today announced that the Miami Dolphins, new expansion member of the circuit, will open the 1966 season by hosting the Oakland Raiders Friday, Sept. 2, in a night game.

The Houston Oilers host the Denver Broncos on Sept. 3, and the San Diego Chargers meet the defending champion Buffalo Bills on Sept. 4 at San Diego in a replay of their title clashes for the past two seasons.

Miami's George Wilson will make his debut as head coach against Oakland's John Raech, another first-year mentor. Wilson has expressed confidence for the Dolphins' opening in the Orange Bowl despite the inexperience of many players.

However, the Lakers indicated they, too, weren't thinking of terms of money—guaranteeing $58,000 to the winning team and $49,000 to the loser as total playoff purses.

The opening tap-off is set for 8:30 p.m. EST. All tickets were sold within a short time after being put on sale at 10 a.m. yesterday as fans formed lines even before Boston's loss at Los Angeles.

The FISHIN' FOOL

Is All Your Gear Ready For '66 Trout Opener Saturday?

STEVENS

With the summer trout season due to open Saturday, chances are a large segment of the fishing veterans have gone over their gear, tested lines and leaders, inspected guides and tip-top on their rods and are all set to try for that big fellow that got away last year.

But there must be a still greater number who will hit the road for their first attempt to hook and land a trout. For such folks, the prediction of good fishing in a large portion of the state is submitted by the fish and game men in the field. "Trout opener could be the best in years," is how they rate prospects. Everyone is asked to keep their fingers crossed and hope for good weather.

THOSE OF you who stay at home on the opener, awaiting news from the field, might prefer a trip after salmon, sturgeon or stripers in the local areas, so let's have a look-see at prospects based on what has happened since last weekend.

SALMON TROLLING remains mainly in the doldrums. The fish haven't disappeared from our waters but they are hiding. The many partyboat skippers are at present "scouting" the areas both north and south of the Golden Gate. The average per rod during the week has been barely one fish.

STRIPER STRIVING has been fairly good to those who trolled the Albany race track area on the flats or under and near the Bay Bridge. Artificials have been getting the best results.

Hal Boenner of Lee Anderson's Bait Shop in Oakland reported an unusually large bluegill taken by "Rusty" Erstedt at Clearlake. It weighed two and one-half pounds and was caught from shore on worms.

Some sturgeon, but few bass have been taken in the San Pablo Bay, but it should pick up when the present series of minus tides is over.

BEST BET for stripers is unquestionably in the back country. Ben Shintaku, of the 60 Main shop in Isleton, who acts as clearing house for many harbors and resorts in that general area, termed fishing good to excellent depending on geography. Ben writes: "Upper Rio Vista Bay is hot spot. Lower Mokelumne was hot until weekend, then water skiers took over." I note the name of Gary DeLuge of Sonoma landing his limit to 15 pounds, and Wayne Allen of San Rafael taking a pair of 14 ponders and a seven pounder. Alvin Joaquin of San Leandro also made the grade with a 15 and a 5 pounder.

New NBA Team To Make Picks

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Chicago Bulls, who make their debut for the 1966-67 season, will select 16 players Saturday from a pool of National Basketball Association players from other teams.

Each of the present nine NBA teams was allowed to protect seven players from being drafted by the Bulls. All other payers are eligible to be chosen by Chicago at the special meeting with NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy.

The Chicago franchise was voted into the NBA last January. Baltimore, formerly in the Western Division, will move into the Eastern Division. The Bulls will replace Baltimore in the West to balance both divisions at five teams apiece.

Gone Fishin' Will Be Theme This Weekend

By JERRY HERRELL

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Thousands of Californians will be heading for the hills this weekend — gone fishin' — as the general trout season opens with the best prospects in years.

Shortly after 5 a.m. Saturday the state's most popular game fish will be legal quarry for a million or so anglers. It's a safe bet that some waters will be fairly whipped to a froth by fishing lines.

All of the state except the far northwestern corner will be open to trout fishing. The northwest area, closed until May 28, consists of Del Norte County, most of Humboldt County, and parts of Glenn, Mendocino and Trinity counties.

A long warm spell has thawed mountain trout waters as high as 7,000 feet and produced nearly ideal water conditions.

The weather outlook is better than for the wintry openers of the past several years. Two years ago hundreds of anglers were snowed in at higher elevation lakes and reservoirs. Last year's trout opener was dampened by wind-blown rain that drove boats off the water and made things uncomfortable for shore anglers.

The State Fish and Game Department has warned fishermen to check weather reports and road conditions. The weather can change fast at this time of the year.

Anglers also were cautioned to obtain valid licenses before heading for the fishing grounds.

Last year, a total of 5,667 persons were cited by wardens for fishing without a license.

Trout anglers 16 or older need the basic $3 fishing license plus two $1 stamps.

The trout limit again this year will be 10 fish or 10 pounds and one fish. Fishing hours are an hour before sunrise to an hour after sunset.

There are an estimated one million trout fishermen in California—about 900,000 license buyers and at least 100,000 unlicensed youngsters.

Traditionally, most of them are out for the opening day, creating jams at the more accessible lakes and streams. It's not uncommon for some 15,000 anglers to congregate at popular Crowley Lake in Mono County.

As more and more trout streams give way to reservoirs, the artificial lakes are becoming more and more popular. But the good early water conditions this year will allow angling on rivers and creeks that usually aren't good until Memorial Day of later.

No Favorites In Texas Open Golf Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Open had 144 entries without a favorite in the lot today as it moved out in the first round of the $80,000 golf tournament.

Only four of the top 20 money-winners and four of the tour champions were in the field that is minus such big names as Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and the No. 1 and No. 3 money winners, Doug Sanders and Gay Brewer.

That's why it is so wide open and also there is the fact that the 6,700-yard Oak Hills Country Club course is in such good condition it is expected to be taken apart many times.

This was indicated yesterday when Bobby Nichols shot a five-under-par 65 in leading a pro-amateur.

There were 66, 67, 68, 69s all over the place.

Frank Beard, who ranks fifth in the PGA money-winning list, is defending champion. There also are six other former Texas Open kings in the field — Phil Rodgers, Jay Hebert, Mike Souchak, Bruce Crampton, Wes Ellis and Gene Littler.

Tour champions here are Don Massengale, Bert Yancey, Dudley Wysong and Rodgers.

First money this year is $13,000.

NEW HOME FOR RICHMOND YACHT CLUB

The new clubhouse, harbor and small boat facility for the Richmond Yacht Club has been completed, with dedication ceremonies scheduled Saturday starting at 1 p.m. The clubhouse is located at Brickyard Cove on the north side of Richmond Channel. In addition to the two-story clubhouse, the project includes facilities for 250 boats, a small boat launching ramp and storage facilities. Rear Commodore Ken Renwick said that when the building is not being used for yachting activities, it will be available for other events, including wedding receptions, bridge parties and luncheons.

Yugoslavia Upsets American Cagers

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Its six-game winning streak snapped by Yugoslavia, the United States faced a must-win situation against Brazil tonight to stay in the running for the world amateur basketball championship.

The Yugoslavs' 69-59 upset victory last night was the first defeat for the Americans in the 13-nation tournament that ends Saturday. They had won three straight in the qualifying round and their first three in the final-round competition.

The Yugoslavs' surprise triumph created a triple tie for first. Yugoslavia, Russia and the United States all are 3-1, and each has two games remaining. Bulgaria, a 75-72 winner over Spain, is 3-2, followed by Brazil at 2-2, Spainiat 1-4 and Chile at 0-4.

Defending champion Brazil surprised by beating the Russians 6-58 on Tuesday and is primed for another upset against the United States. The Americans and the Russians meet in the final game Saturday.

The Yugoslavs proved themselves better players in the chil and wind that swept the outdoor court in National Stadium. They took the lead early and held it on a basket by Radivoje Korac that broke an 8-8 tie.

After Harold Sergeant's basket pulled the Americans to within two points at 40-38 in the second half the Yugoslavs opened a 15-point lead.

The U.S. team missed shot after shot in the second half and lost the ball repeatedly on poor passes. In addition they made only 13 of 30 free throws and had three players foul out, Darrell Carrier, Ray Carey and Jay Miller. Kendall Rhyne was high U.S. scorer with 14 points.

Gary Thompson, the U.S. coach, said the team was hurt by the loss of Jim King of Akron, Ohio. King has suffered a slipped spinal disc and is not expected to play in the remaining games.

"I don't want any alibis, but this game should have been played indoors," Thompson declared. "My players just could not get warm enough to relax."

Korac, who finished with 13 points for the Yugoslavs, said, "I was shivering throughout and the wind was very bothersome. I missed several good shots because of that."

Firemen, Police Practice For Sausalito Softball

Sausalito police and firemen are getting in shape for a baseball game to be held at 1:30 p.m., Sunday, May 8, at Richardson Bay School.

Manager for the firemen is Fire Chief Charles E. Masten. Manager for the police team is Police Lt. Theodore C. Zink. Jim Langdon of Mill Valley will be umpire and City Mgr. Charles A. Brown has agreed to "referee" for the first inning.

Zink said today, "We challenged the fire department and the challenge was met. We hope the fire department brings along its oxygen tanks for the older men. I don't anticipate any problem in defeating the fire department. Age will tell."

Zink added, in a more serious vein, that he believes the game will be good for morale.

"They had better wear their riot hats—not baseball hats," said Fire Capt. Ralph K. Pedersen. "We've got a bean ball specialist."

Proceeds from the game will go to the Sausalito Sister City Fund to be used to help bring the first student from Vina Del Mar, Chile, Sausalito's sister city, to Tamalpais High School. Donations for the game will be accepted at the gate.

Boaters Reminded Of Registration Sticker Display

SACRAMENTO—Enforcement officers are now issuing citations to California boaters using craft not displaying the official red sticker that indicates registration for the 1966-68 period, the Division of Small Craft Harbors warned today.

All California boat registrations expired last Jan. 1, and Division Chief Lachlan M. Richards noted that nearly three months have passed since the Feb. 4 non-penalty deadline set for using a boat that had not been reregistered.

Richards reminded that each boat's registration slip must be aboard, its number properly displayed and the red sticker in place when the vessel is on the water.

He noted that the display of a boat's registration number and sticker not only show compliance with the law but are imortant in search and rescue efforts and in guarding against boat theft.

Marin County Junior Golf Tournament will be staged Saturday, May 14 at San Rafael's Peacock Gap Country Club, the sponsoring San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce announced today.

The tournament, winner of which will qualify for a statewide tournament in June, is open to all Marin County high school boys who will not reach their 19th birthday before August 1.

Entries will be registered this Saturday at a junior golf clinic, also sponsored by the junior chamber, at Las Gallinas Golf Course, three miles north of San Rafael. "All boys who plan to play in the tournament must attend the clinic," a junior chamber spokesman said.

Instructors at the clinic, scheduled from 12:30 to 3 p.m., will be Marin golf professionals Joe Colfer, Harry Lawrence, Ron Patton and Bob Finn.

Mill Valley Merchants semi-professional baseball team will conduct signups and opening tryouts for the 1966 season next Sunday at Mill Valley's Optimists Field, Manager Bob Selna announced today.

"Any ball player caring to try out is welcome as there are many openings on this year's team," said Selna, who is starting his eighth season as manager.

Last year Mill Valley finished third in the Bay Area League, but was awarded the championship because of two forfeitures by opposing teams.

Houston Astro Motto: Better Baseball Through Chemistry

HANLEY

Better baseball through chemistry? But you got to believe it after watching the ball bounce on the new infield Astroturf in the Astrodome. There wasn't one bad hop during the recent four-game Giant-Astro series in the domed stadium.

The new infield surface is as unique as the Astrodome. It literally is a carpet, zippered together in 14-foot strips. Naturally, it is a green carpet to simulate grass. Its chemical composition is as baffling to an ordinary bloke as the makeup of those modern-day home rugs which look like wool and cotton but aren't.

Skeptics still refuse to be convinced that Astroturf is ever going to become the universal playing field for baseball. But it is in the Astrodome to stay because Judge Roy Hofheinz says so. And what the judge says about the Astrodome is law. The judge may be a controversial figure but he sure is a man with ideas.

"EVERYTHING ABOUT the Astrodome is unparalleled and trail-blazing," says the judge who got into baseball when Houston got its first major league club in 1962. "We feel the addition of this new playing surface, a product of chemistry, not only enhances our own facilities but also should launch a new and wonderous era in recreational engineering. The Astrodome is honored to be the original site of this extraordinary experiment."

THE EXPERIMENT began behind closed doors in January this year when a group of Astros under their new manager Brady Hatton held practice sessions on the Astroturf. The group included shortstop Bob Lillis and third baseman Bob Aspromonte who have a combined experience of 22 years as professional infielders.

JOHNNY TEMPLE, a pretty good shortstop himself until he retired a few years ago to become a radio-TV sports reporter in Houston, also participated in the experiment. The balls got through the infield too fast for Temple and some zipped too speedily off the Astroturf for Aspromonte and Lillis to handle.

However, the Astroturf was not at fault. Chemists who made the stuff assured everybody of that. And they were right. They advised that the ground beneath the Astroturf be softened. It was. Now ground balls in the Astrodome act like ground balls should.

"THE ASTROTURF infield is one of the top two in baseball," said Aspromonte. "The only infield that might be better is the infield at Candlestick Park but there you have to worry about that darn wind."

"The bounce is always true," said Lillis. "You never get a bad bounce off this stuff. It is faster than some infields but not as fast as the infields at Dodger Stadium or St. Louis."

"THIS PUTS the icing on the cake," said Hatton. "The Astrodome now is a real Utopia for baseball. No wind, no sun, no rain, no heat, no cold and now no bad bounces."

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, April 28, the 118th day of 1966 with 247 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase; the morning stars are Venus and Saturn; the evening star is Jupiter.

President James Monroe was born on this day in 1758.

On this day in history:

In 1942, the U.S. government ordered a World War II "dim-out" in all communities along the Atlantic coast after dusk.

In 1952, the war with Japan officially ended as a treaty signed the year before by the United States and 47 other nations went into effect.

In 1965, President Johnson ordered 400 U.S. Marines into the Dominican Republic after fighting broke out. Eventually some 14,000 U.S. troops were dispatched to the island nation.

A thought for the day—English essayist William Hazlitt said: "The only true retirement is that of the heart; the only true leisure is the repose of the passions."

Sherlock Holmes Called On To Solve Another Card Killing

"Can't anybody tell me how the last hand was played?" Sherlock Holmes asked as he stood behind the lifeless body of Lord Moneybags.

Three horrified players shook their heads dumbly, but the butler spoke up.

"His Lordship led two top spades," the butler related.

"Declarer ruffed with the king of hearts, led a heart to dummy's nine and returned a diamond for a finesse. His Lordship won and returned the jack of spades."

"The deuce he did," Holmes snapped.

SLEUTH CORRECTED

"No, sir, the jack he did," the butler corrected the great detective.

"Declarer ruffed with the ace of trumps and led the jack of trumps to dummy's queen. He continued with the ten of trumps, discarding the jack of clubs, and led the nine of diamonds for a finesse.

CASE IS SOLVED

Holmes turned to Dr. Watson.

"The butler did it," he announced. "However, no jury will convict him."

"There were two bridge players in that room: declarer and the butler. The others were just pushing cards around," Holmes explained.

"Declarer gained by the blunder, so he would not have killed Moneybags. But the butler was outraged by the horrible play. Obviously he was the murderer."

THE REASON

Lord Moneybags could have saved the contract (and his life) by returning a trump instead of the jack of spades.

South needs the extra ruff and cannot get it for himself because there are no side entries to dummy.

The moral is clear.

One Of Worst Losses For Stock Exchange

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed today with one of the worst losses of the year. Trading was fairly active.

Here was the picture near the close:

Volume for the day was estimated at 8.7 million shares compared with 9.97 million yesterday.

The Dow Jones industrial average at 2 p.m. was off 12.31 at 932.23.

Discouraged selling was blamed by brokers on a Supreme Court decision finding General Motors guilty of violating antitrust law by trying to ban sale of Chevrolets through discount houses in the Los Angeles area.

GM common was down more than a point, touching a new low of 88⅞. Other auto stocks were unchanged to slightly lower but losses ran from 1 to 5 points among other leading issues.

Rails reacted further to the merger decisions Wednesday of the Interstate Commerce Commission, New York Central and Pennsylvania each dropping 2 or more. Northern Pacific and Great Northern, their merger refused, fell another 3 points each. Down more than 3 were Milwaukee Road common and its preferred. Chicago North Western sank 2 and its preferred 6.

Texas Gulf Sulphur lost nearly 6. Fairchild Camera and Texas Instruments 5, Motorola nearly 4, Boeing (ex-dividend), Polaroid, Xerox, IBM, Admiral, Magnavox, about 3.

Georgia-Pacific toppled half a dozen points amid fraud charges. It appeared to be the most-active stock.

Gulf & Western Industries and Northwest Airlines lost 4 each.

Down about 2 were Delaware Power & Light, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and United Aircraft.

Many other issues took 1 or 2-point losses.

Purity Has Fewer Stores, More Sales

Purity Stores, Inc., has reported sales for the first 12 weeks of 1966 at $24,900,613 as compared to $24,637,063 reported in the same period of 1965 when four more stores were in operation.

Unemployment Report Deadline Approaching

Monday is the deadline for filing California unemployment insurance wage reports and contribution returns for the first quarter of 1966. Penalty and interest will be charged if the report is filed after the deadline.

Employers needing assistance in preparing their returns may inquire of Charles J. Brady, auditor in charge for the State Department of Employment, at 807 E Street, San Rafael.

Daytime temperatures in Riyadh, capital of Saudi Arabia, rise as high as 113 degrees and may fall no lower than 90 degrees at night.

Monogram Industries Has 72 Per Cent Jump

LOS ANGELES — Sales and earnings of Monogram Industries, Inc., increased by 72 per cent in the first three quarters of the current fiscal year over the same period a year before, Martin Stone, the company's president, announced.

Stone said that "substantial orders" had been received in the third quarter for Monogram lavatory systems for jet passenger and cargo air planes. He said that these orders "take into account new engineering concepts which improve the operating efficiency of Monogram's aircraft systems."

Shareholders Order Bank Vote Ended

OAKLAND—The voting trust of Central Valley National Bank reportedly has ended.

Frank Cirimele, chairman of the shareholders rights committee of the Central Valley National Bank, announced today that the owners of more than two-thirds of the capital stock of the bank deposited in the voting trust of May 15, 1957, had delivered to the voting trustees directions, in writing, to terminate the voting trust effective immediately.

Stange Sales Setting Record For Quarter

CHICAGO—First quarter sales of Stange Co. are running 15 per cent ahead of the record 1965 quarter, Bruce L. Durling, president, told the annual meeting here.

He said that Stange was tooling up for production of a new product to be introduced at the institute of food technologists conference in Portland, Ore., May 22, which was expected to "contribute considerably to sales and profits for the full year."

Siskiyou is probably from a Cree Indian word, sisikiyawatim, meaning "spotted horse." In 1828, Archibald R. McLeod of Hudson's Bay Company, crossing the Siskiyou Mountains in a severe snowstorm, lost most of his animals, including a noted bobtailed horse, whereupon his Canadian followers named the place "Pass of the Siskiyou."

NO MORE NECK TOWELS

Among new products shown at a recent Chicago International Franchise Exposition is this vacuum clipper system for barbers. The machine eliminates the need for neck towels for customers getting haircuts. Franchise show queen Joyce Macey operates the system on Walter Zawacki. (UPI Telephoto)

The name Novato is that of a valley, also an early land grant. One authority says the name is derived from that of a chief of the Hookooeko Indians who probably had been baptized for Novatus, an early Roman Christian.

Zolene, Holiday Magic Cosmetic Firms Grow, Expand Headquarters

A new home in San Rafael has been leased by Zolene, Inc., the original firm to manufacture the beauty products now sold throughout the country under the name of Holiday Magic Cosmetics.

Zolene and Holiday Magic (the latter is a separate company handling sales and distribution) have been sharing space in a 14,000-square foot location at 616 Canal Street. This seemed to provide ample room for both operations when they moved in about a year ago. But since then they have hopelessly outgrown it.

Holiday Magic will remain on Canal Street, using the entire space as its office headquarters. Zolene, through Ray Van Meter and Jerry Khan of Coldwell, Banker and Co., has leased the 30,000-square foot building at 169 Jacoby Street which has been used as a warehouse by United Markets. It's a long term lease, so Zolene must figure there's enough room for expansion. Occupancy should be about the middle of next month.

United (Saccone Bros.) has gone out of the wholesale grocery business entirely, and so no longer needs all this space. It is taking over the entire lower floor of the West Building at Fourth and Mary Streets in San Rafael for its retail headquarters. Present markets in Marin and San Francisco will be retained. New United Market in Santa Rosa is scheduled for completion about the middle of July.

ZUT ALORS is the name of a new shop soon to open—probably at the east end of Main Street, Tiburon. It will handle fresh flowers, soaps, candies, jewelry and gifts. The owner, a resident of Tiburon, goes by the name of Corinne L-N — even signs her checks that way.

HARRY W. SUMMERS JR. of Fairhills has been promoted to manager of the San Francisco office of Dempsey-Tegeler and Co., Inc. In the past, managerial duties have been handled by Jack Lackey Jr., vice president of the stock brokerage firm's northern division. Summers joined Dempsey-Tegeler in 1960 and has been an account executive in the San Francisco office since then.

A. H. ANGELINI of Los Ranchitos, director of pharmacy at Ross General Hospital, is one of three California delegates to the annual convention of the American Society of Pharmacists at Dallas, Texas this week.

He is a member of a committee studying pharmacy facilities in small hospitals. Actually 60 per cent of those with under 100 beds do not have pharmacies, claims Angelini—a matter of concern for the demands of Medicare soon to come.

REAL ESTATE. Arlen O. Ellis of Greenbrae, head of the property management department of Norris, Beggs and Simpson, San Francisco, has been accepted for membership in the Certified Shopping Center Managers group of the International Council of Shopping Centers.... Two new model homes (making a total of four) in the $43,000 range have been opened at Bel Marin Keys. Deep water channel here is said to be completed and deep enough for pleasure craft of all sizes to ply from bay to lagoons. . . . Prudential Insurance Co. reports Marin real estate loan disbursements of $722,578 during the first quarter—all for residential properties.

RICHARD CONLAN of Mill Valley, an official of Charles L. Conlan Printers and Lithographers, San Francisco, reports that his company has been accepted for membership in the Creative Printers of America.

SUPPORT TO PRIVATE SCHOOLS belonging to the Independent Colleges of Northern California by International Harvester Foundation has been increased this year to $4,750. Dominican College of San Rafael belongs to the Northern California college group.

Falk Corp. Earnings At $1.58 Per Share

WILMAUKEE — The Falk Corp. earnings for the first quarter of 1966 were $1,233,267, or $1.58 per share, it was announced by Harold F. Falk, president, at the annual meeting of shareholders here.

This compares with earnings of $931,006 or $1.28 per share for the first quarter of last year. The first quarter dividend rate was 30 cents per share this year and 25 cents last year.

Interpace Income

LOS ANGELES—Net income of International Pipe and Ceramics Corp. (Interpace) for the quarter ended March 31 rose 36 per cent to $974,000 from $718,000 for the first quarter of 1965. Revenues rose 23 per cent to a record level of $31,126,000 from $25,367,000 for the 1965 first quarter.
